

THE DUCHESS OF MALFI

JOHN WEBSTER

The Project Gutenberg eBook of The Duchess of Malfi

This eBook is for the use of anyone anywhere in the United States and most other parts of the world at no cost and with almost no restrictions whatsoever. You may copy it, give it away or re-use it under the terms of the Project Gutenberg License included with this eBook or online at www.gutenberg.org. If you are not located in the United States, you will have to check the laws of the country where you are located before using this eBook.

Title: The Duchess of Malfi

Author: John Webster

Release date: June 1, 2000 [eBook #2232]
Most recently updated: February 8, 2013

Language: English

Other information and formats: www.gutenberg.org/ebooks/2232

Credits: Produced by Gary R. Young and David Widger

 START OF THE PROJECT GUTENBERG EBOOK THE DUCHESS OF MALFI ***

THE DUCHESS OF MALFI

by John Webster

CONTENTS

INTRODUCTORY NOTE

THE DUCHESS OF MALFI

FOOTNOTES:

INTRODUCTORY NOTE

Of John Webster's life almost nothing is known. The dates 1580-1625 given for his birth and death are conjectural inferences, about which the best that can be said is that no known facts contradict them.

The first notice of Webster so far discovered shows that he was collaborating in the production of plays for the theatrical manager, Henslowe, in 1602, and of such collaboration he seems to have done a considerable amount. Four plays exist which he wrote alone, "The White Devil," "The Duchess of Malfi," "The Devil's Law-Case," and "Appius and Virginia."

"The Duchess of Malfi" was published in 1623, but the date of writing may have been as early as 1611. It is based on a story in Painter's "Palace of Pleasure," translated from the Italian novelist, Bandello; and it is entirely possible that it has a foundation in fact. In any case, it portrays with a terrible vividness one side of the court life of the Italian Renaissance; and its picture of the fierce quest of pleasure, the recklessness of crime, and the worldliness of the great princes of the Church finds only too ready corroboration in the annals of the time.

Webster's tragedies come toward the close of the great series of tragedies of blood and revenge, in which "The Spanish Tragedy" and "Hamlet" are landmarks, but before decadence can fairly be said to have set in. He, indeed, loads his scene with horrors almost past the point which modern taste can bear; but the intensity of his dramatic situations, and his superb power of flashing in a single line a light into the recesses of the human heart at the crises of supreme emotion, redeems him from mere sensationalism, and places his best things in the first rank of dramatic writing.

THE DUCHESS OF MALFI

Dramatis Personae:

FERDINAND [Duke of Calabria].
CARDINAL [his brother].
ANTONIO [BOLOGNA, Steward of the Household to the Duchess].
DELIO [his friend].
DANIEL DE BOSOLA [Gentleman of the Horse to the Duchess].
[CASTRUCCIO, an old Lord].
MARQUIS OF PESCARA.
[COUNT] MALATESTI.

RODERIGO,] SILVIO,] [Lords].
GRISOLAN,]

DOCTOR.
The Several Madmen.

DUCHESS [OF MALFI].
CARIOLA [her woman].
[JULIA, Castruccio's wife, and] the Cardinal's mistress.
[Old Lady].

Ladies, Three Young Children, Two Pilgrims, Executioners, Court Officers, and Attendants.

ACT I

SCENE I[1]

[Enter] ANTONIO and DELIO

DELIO. You are welcome to your country, dear An
You have been long in France, and you return
A very formal Frenchman in your habit:
How do you like the French court?

ANTONIO. I admire it:
In seeking to reduce both state and people
To a fix'd order, their judicious king
Begins at home; quits first his royal palace
Of flattering sycophants, of dissolute
And infamous persons,—which he sweetly terms
His master's master-piece, the work of heaven;
Considering duly that a prince's court

Is like a common fountain, whence should flow
Pure silver drops in general, but if 't chance
Some curs'd example poison 't near the head,
Death and diseases through the whole land spreac
And what is 't makes this blessed government
But a most provident council, who dare freely
Inform him the corruption of the times?
Though some o' the court hold it presumption
To instruct princes what they ought to do,
It is a noble duty to inform them
What they ought to foresee.[2]—Here comes Bosola
The only court-gall; yet I observe his railing
Is not for simple love of piety:
Indeed, he rails at those things which he wants;
Would be as lecherous, covetous, or proud,
Bloody, or envious, as any man,
If he had means to be so.—Here's the cardinal.

[Enter CARDINAL and BOSOLA]

BOSOLA. I do haunt you still.

CARDINAL. So.

BOSOLA. I have done you better service than to Miserable age, where only the reward of doing we of it!

CARDINAL. You enforce your merit too much.

BOSOLA. I fell into the galleys in your service years together, I wore two towels instead of a s on the shoulder, after the fashion of a Roman ma
I will thrive some way. Black-birds fatten best why not I in these dog-days?

CARDINAL. Would you could become honest!

BOSOLA. With all your divinity do but direct me
I have known many travel far for it, and yet ret

as they went forth, because they carried themsel them. [Exit CARDINAL.] Are you gone? Some fell are possessed with the devil, but this great fel to possess the greatest devil, and make him wors

ANTONIO. He hath denied thee some suit?

BOSOLA. He and his brother are like plum-trees over standing-pools; they are rich and o'erlader but crows, pies, and caterpillars feed on them.
of their flattering panders, I would hang on the horseleech, till I were full, and then drop off.
Who would rely upon these miserable dependencies to be advanc'd to-morrow? What creature ever fe Tantalus? Nor ever died any man more fearfully for a pardon. There are rewards for hawks and d done us service; but for a soldier that hazards battle, nothing but a kind of geometry is his la

DELIO. Geometry?

BOSOLA. Ay, to hang in a fair pair of slings, t in the world upon an honourable pair of crutches to hospital. Fare ye well, sir: and yet do not for places in the court are but like beds in the this man's head lies at that man's foot, and so
[Exit.]

DELIO. I knew this fellow seven years in the ga
For a notorious murder; and 'twas thought
The cardinal suborn'd it: he was releas'd
By the French general, Gaston de Foix,
When he recover'd Naples.

ANTONIO. 'Tis great pity
He should be thus neglected: I have heard
He 's very valiant. This foul melancholy
Will poison all his goodness; for, I 'll tell yo
If too immoderate sleep be truly said
To be an inward rust unto the soul,

If then doth follow want of action
Breeds all black malcontents; and their close re
Like moths in cloth, do hurt for want of wearing

SCENE II[3]

ANTONIO, DELIO, [Enter SILVIO, CASTRUCCIO, and GRISOLAN]

DELIO. The presence 'gins to fill: you promis
To make me the partaker of the natures
Of some of your great courtiers.

ANTONIO. The lord cardi
And other strangers' that are now in court?
I shall.—Here comes the great Calabrian duke.

[Enter FERDINAND and Attendants]

FERDINAND. Who took the ring oftenest?[4]

SILVIO. Antonio Bologna, my lord.

FERDINAND. Our sister duchess' great-master of Give him the jewel.—When shall we leave this spo and fall to action indeed?

CASTRUCCIO. Methinks, my lord, you should not c in person.

FERDINAND. Now for some gravity.—Why, my lord?

CASTRUCCIO. It is fitting a soldier arise to be necessary a prince descend to be a captain.

FERDINAND. No?

CASTRUCCIO. No, my lord; he were far better do

FERDINAND. Why should he not as well sleep or e
This might take idle, offensive, and base office the other deprives him of honour.

CASTRUCCIO. Believe my experience, that realm i where the ruler is a soldier.

FERDINAND. Thou toldest me thy wife could not e

CASTRUCCIO. True, my lord.

FERDINAND. And of a jest she broke of[5] a capt wounds: I have forgot it.

CASTRUCCIO. She told him, my lord, he was a pit like the children of Ismael, all in tents.[6]

FERDINAND. Why, there's a wit were able to undo chirurgeons[7] o' the city; for although gallant and had drawn their weapons, and were ready to g persuasions would make them put up.

CASTRUCCIO. That she would, my lord.—How do you gennet?[8]

RODERIGO. He is all fire.

FERDINAND. I am of Pliny's opinion, I think he by the wind; he runs as if he were ballass'd[9]

SILVIO. True, my lord, he reels from the tilt o

RODERIGO, GRISOLAN. Ha, ha, ha!

FERDINAND. Why do you laugh? Methinks you that should be my touch-wood, take fire when I give i laugh when I laugh, were the subject never so wi

CASTRUCCIO. True, my lord: I myself have heard and have scorn'd to seem to have so silly a wit

FERDINAND. But I can laugh at your fool, my lor

CASTRUCCIO. He cannot speak, you know, but he n cannot abide him.

FERDINAND. No?

CASTRUCCIO. Nor endure to be in merry company;
laughing, and too much company, fills her too fu

FERDINAND. I would, then, have a mathematical i for her face, that she might not laugh out of co shortly visit you at Milan, Lord Silvio.

SILVIO. Your grace shall arrive most welcome.

FERDINAND. You are a good horseman, Antonio; yo riders in France: what do you think of good hor

ANTONIO. Nobly, my lord: as out of the Grecian famous princes, so out of brave horsemanship ari of growing resolution, that raise the mind to no

FERDINAND. You have bespoke it worthily.

SILVIO. Your brother, the lord cardinal, and si

[Enter CARDINAL, with DUCHESS, and CARIOLA]

CARDINAL. Are the galleys come about?

GRISOLAN. They are

FERDINAND. Here 's the Lord Silvio is come to t

DELIO. Now, sir, your promise: what 's that ca
I mean his temper? They say he 's a brave fello
Will play his five thousand crowns at tennis, da
Court ladies, and one that hath fought single co

ANTONIO. Some such flashes superficially hang o but observe his inward character: he is a melar
The spring in his face is nothing but the engenc where he is jealous of any man, he lays worse pl ever was impos'd on Hercules, for he strews in h panders, intelligencers, atheists, and a thousar monsters. He should have been Pope; but instead by the primitive decency of the church, he did h so largely and so impudently as if he would have without heaven's knowledge. Some good he hath o

DELIO. You have given too much of him. What 's

ANTONIO. The duke there? A most perverse and t
What appears in him mirth is merely outside;
If he laught heartily, it is to laugh
All honesty out of fashion.

DELIO. Twins?

ANTONIO. In quality.
He speaks with others' tongues, and hears men's
With others' ears; will seem to sleep o' the ber
Only to entrap offenders in their answers;
Dooms men to death by information;
Rewards by hearsay.

DELIO. Then the law to him
Is like a foul, black cobweb to a spider,—
He makes it his dwelling and a prison
To entangle those shall feed him.

ANTONIO. Most true:
He never pays debts unless they be shrewd turns,
And those he will confess that he doth owe.
Last, for this brother there, the cardinal,
They that do flatter him most say oracles
Hang at his lips; and verily I believe them,
For the devil speaks in them.

But for their sister, the right noble duchess,
You never fix'd your eye on three fair medals
Cast in one figure, of so different temper.
For her discourse, it is so full of rapture,
You only will begin then to be sorry
When she doth end her speech, and wish, in wonde
She held it less vain-glory to talk much,
Than your penance to hear her. Whilst she speak
She throws upon a man so sweet a look
That it were able to raise one to a galliard.[10
That lay in a dead palsy, and to dote
On that sweet countenance; but in that look
There speaketh so divine a continence
As cuts off all lascivious and vain hope.
Her days are practis'd in such noble virtue,
That sure her nights, nay, more, her very sleeps
Are more in heaven than other ladies' shrifts.
Let all sweet ladies break their flatt'ring glas
And dress themselves in her.

DELIO. Fie, Antonio,
You play the wire-drawer with her commendations.

ANTONIO. I 'll case the picture up: only thus
All her particular worth grows to this sum,—
She stains[11] the time past, lights the time to

CARIOLA. You must attend my lady in the gallery
Some half and hour hence.

ANTONIO. I shall.
[Exeunt ANTONIO and DELIO.]

FERDINAND. Sister, I have a suit to you.

DUCHESS. To me

FERDINAND. A gentleman here, Daniel de Bosola,
*One that was in the galleys——

DUCHESS. Yes, I know him.

FERDINAND. A worthy fellow he is: pray, let me
The provisorship of your horse.

DUCHESS. Your knowledge
Commends him and prefers him.

FERDINAND. Call him hither.
[Exit Attendant.]
We [are] now upon[12] parting. Good Lord Silvio
Do us commend to all our noble friends
At the leaguer.

SILVIO. Sir, I shall.

[DUCHESS.] You are for Mila

SILVIO. I am.

DUCHESS. Bring the caroches.[13]—We 'll h
To the haven.
[Exeunt DUCHESS, SILVIO, CASTRUCCIO, RODERI
CARIOLA, JULIA, and Attendants.]

CARDINAL. Be sure you entertain that Bosola
For your intelligence.[14] I would not be seen
And therefore many times I have slighted him
When he did court our furtherance, as this morni

FERDINAND. Antonio, the great-master of her hou
Had been far fitter.

CARDINAL. You are deceiv'd in him.
His nature is too honest for such business.—
He comes: I 'll leave you.
[Exit.]

[Re-enter BOSOLA]

BOSOLA. I was lur'd to you.

FERDINAND. My brother, here, the cardinal, coul Abide you.

BOSOLA. Never since he was in my debt.

FERDINAND. May be some oblique character in you
Made him suspect you.

BOSOLA. Doth he study physiognomy
There 's no more credit to be given to the face
Than to a sick man's urine, which some call
The physician's whore, because she cozens[15] hi
He did suspect me wrongfully.

FERDINAND. For that
You must give great men leave to take their time
Distrust doth cause us seldom be deceiv'd.
You see the oft shaking of the cedar-tree
Fastens it more at root.

BOSOLA. Yet take heed;
For to suspect a friend unworthily
Instructs him the next way to suspect you,
And prompts him to deceive you.

FERDINAND. There 's gold.

BOSOLA.
What follows? [Aside.] Never rain'd such showe
Without thunderbolts i' the tail of them.—Whose

FERDINAND. Your inclination to shed blood rides
Before my occasion to use you. I give you that
To live i' the court here, and observe the duche
To note all the particulars of her haviour,
What suitors do solicit her for marriage,
And whom she best affects. She 's a young widow
I would not have her marry again.

BOSOLA. No, sir?

FERDINAND. Do not you ask the reason; but be sa
I say I would not.

BOSOLA. It seems you would create me
One of your familiars.

FERDINAND. Familiar! What 's that?

BOSOLA. Why, a very quaint invisible devil in t
An intelligencer.[16]

FERDINAND. Such a kind of thriving thir
I would wish thee; and ere long thou mayst arriv
At a higher place by 't.

BOSOLA. Take your devils,
Which hell calls angels! These curs'd gifts wou
You a corrupter, me an impudent traitor;
And should I take these, they'd take me [to] hel

FERDINAND. Sir, I 'll take nothing from you tha
There is a place that I procur'd for you
This morning, the provisorship o' the horse;
Have you heard on 't?

BOSOLA. No.

FERDINAND. 'Tis yours: is 't n

BOSOLA. I would have you curse yourself now, th
(Which makes men truly noble) e'er should make m
A villain. O, that to avoid ingratitude
For the good deed you have done me, I must do
All the ill man can invent! Thus the devil
Candies all sins o'er; and what heaven terms vil
That names he complimental.

FERDINAND. Be yourself;
Keep your old garb of melancholy; 'twill express
You envy those that stand above your reach,
Yet strive not to come near 'em. This will gain
Access to private lodgings, where yourself
May, like a politic dormouse——

BOSOLA. As I have seen s
Feed in a lord's dish, half asleep, not seeming
To listen to any talk; and yet these rogues
Have cut his throat in a dream. What 's my plac
The provisorship o' the horse? Say, then, my co
Grew out of horse-dung: I am your creature.

FERDINAND. Aw
[Exit.]

BOSOLA. Let good men, for good deeds, covet goo
Since place and riches oft are bribes of shame.
Sometimes the devil doth preach.
[Exit.]

[Scene III][17]

[Enter FERDINAND, DUCHESS, CARDINAL, and CA

CARDINAL. We are to part from you; and your own
Must now be your director.

FERDINAND. You are a widow:
You know already what man is; and therefore Let not youth, high promotion, eloquence——

CARDINAL. No,
Nor anything without the addition, honour,
Sway your high blood.

FERDINAND. Marry! they are most luxu
Will wed twice.

CARDINAL. O, fie!

FERDINAND. Their livers are more
Than Laban's sheep.[19]

DUCHESS. Diamonds are of most value
They say, that have pass'd through most jewelle

FERDINAND. Whores by that rule are precious.

DUCHESS. W
I 'll never marry.

CARDINAL. So most widows say;
But commonly that motion lasts no longer
Than the turning of an hour-glass: the funeral
And it end both together.

FERDINAND. Now hear me:
You live in a rank pasture, here, i' the court;
There is a kind of honey-dew that 's deadly;
'T will poison your fame; look to 't. Be not cu
For they whose faces do belie their hearts
Are witches ere they arrive at twenty years,
Ay, and give the devil suck.

DUCHESS. This is terrible good counsel.

FERDINAND. Hypocrisy is woven of a fine small t
Subtler than Vulcan's engine:[20] yet, believe
Your darkest actions, nay, your privat'st thoug
Will come to light.

CARDINAL. You may flatter yourself,
And take your own choice; privately be married
Under the eaves of night——

FERDINAND. Think 't the best vo
That e'er you made; like the irregular crab,

Which, though 't goes backward, thinks that it g
Because it goes its own way: but observe,
Such weddings may more properly be said
To be executed than celebrated.

CARDINAL. The marriage ni
Is the entrance into some prison.

FERDINAND. And those joy
Those lustful pleasures, are like heavy sleeps
Which do fore-run man's mischief.

CARDINAL. Fare you well
Wisdom begins at the end: remember it.
[Exit.]

DUCHESS. I think this speech between you both w
It came so roundly off.

FERDINAND. You are my sister;
This was my father's poniard, do you see?
I 'd be loth to see 't look rusty, 'cause 'twas
I would have you give o'er these chargeable reve
A visor and a mask are whispering-rooms
That were never built for goodness,—fare ye well
And women like variety of courtship.
What cannot a neat knave with a smooth tale
Make a woman believe? Farewell, lusty widow.
[Exit.]

DUCHESS. Shall this move me? If all my royal k
Lay in my way unto this marriage,
I 'd make them my low footsteps. And even now,
Even in this hate, as men in some great battles,
By apprehending danger, have achiev'd
Almost impossible actions (I have heard soldiers
So I through frights and threatenings will assay
This dangerous venture. Let old wives report
I wink'd and chose a husband.—Cariola,
To thy known secrecy I have given up

More than my life,—my fame.

CARIOLA. Both shall be safe
For I 'll conceal this secret from the world
As warily as those that trade in poison
Keep poison from their children.

DUCHESS. Thy protestati
Is ingenious and hearty; I believe it.
Is Antonio come?

CARIOLA. He attends you.

DUCHESS. Good dear sou
Leave me; but place thyself behind the arras,
Where thou mayst overhear us. Wish me good spee
For I am going into a wilderness,
Where I shall find nor path nor friendly clue
To be my guide.
[Cariola goes behind the arras.]
[Enter ANTONIO]
I sent for you: sit down;
Take pen and ink, and write: are you ready?

ANTONIO. Ye

DUCHESS. What did I say?

ANTONIO. That I should write somewhat.

DUCHESS. O, I re
After these triumphs and this large expense
It 's fit, like thrifty husbands,[21] we inquire
What 's laid up for to-morrow.

ANTONIO. So please your beauteous excellence.

DUCHESS.
Indeed, I thank you. I look young for your sake
You have ta'en my cares upon you.

ANTONIO. I 'll fetch y
The particulars of your revenue and expense.

DUCHESS. O, you are
An upright treasurer: but you mistook;
For when I said I meant to make inquiry
What 's laid up for to-morrow, I did mean
What 's laid up yonder for me.

ANTONIO. Where?

DUCHESS. In heave
I am making my will (as 'tis fit princes should,
In perfect memory), and, I pray, sir, tell me,
Were not one better make it smiling, thus,
Than in deep groans and terrible ghastly looks,
As if the gifts we parted with procur'd[22]
That violent distraction?

ANTONIO. O, much better.

DUCHESS. If I had a husband now, this care were
But I intend to make you overseer.
What good deed shall we first remember? Say.

ANTONIO. Begin with that first good deed began
After man's creation, the sacrament of marriage;
I 'd have you first provide for a good husband;
Give him all.

DUCHESS. All!

ANTONIO. Yes, your excellent self.

DUCHESS. In a winding-sheet?

ANTONIO. In a couple.

DUCHESS. Saint Winifred, that were a strange wi

ANTONIO. 'Twere stranger[23] if there were no v
To marry again.

DUCHESS. What do you think of marriage?

ANTONIO. I take 't, as those that deny purgator
It locally contains or heaven or hell;
There 's no third place in 't.

DUCHESS. How do you affec

ANTONIO. My banishment, feeding my melancholy,
Would often reason thus.

DUCHESS. Pray, let 's hear it.

ANTONIO. Say a man never marry, nor have childr
What takes that from him? Only the bare name
Of being a father, or the weak delight
To see the little wanton ride a-cock-horse
Upon a painted stick, or hear him chatter
Like a taught starling.

DUCHESS. Fie, fie, what 's all t
One of your eyes is blood-shot; use my ring to '
They say 'tis very sovereign. 'Twas my wedding-
And I did vow never to part with it
But to my second husband.

ANTONIO. You have parted with it now.

DUCHESS. Yes, to help your eye-sight.

ANTONIO. You have made me stark blind.

DUCHESS. How?

ANTONIO. There is a saucy and ambitious devil
Is dancing in this circle.

DUCHESS. Remove him.

ANTONIO. How?

DUCHESS. There needs small conjuration, when yo
May do it: thus. Is it fit?
[She puts the ring upon his finger]: he kne

ANTONIO. What said you?

DUCHESS. S
This goodly roof of yours is too low built;
I cannot stand upright in 't nor discourse,
Without I raise it higher. Raise yourself;
Or, if you please, my hand to help you: so.
[Raises him.]

ANTONIO. Ambition, madam, is a great man's madn
That is not kept in chains and close-pent rooms,
But in fair lightsome lodgings, and is girt
With the wild noise of prattling visitants,
Which makes it lunatic beyond all cure.
Conceive not I am so stupid but I aim[24]
Whereto your favours tend: but he 's a fool
That, being a-cold, would thrust his hands i' th
To warm them.

DUCHESS. So, now the ground 's broke,
You may discover what a wealthy mine
I make your lord of.

ANTONIO. O my unworthiness!

DUCHESS. You were ill to sell yourself:
This dark'ning of your worth is not like that
Which tradesmen use i' the city; their false lig
Are to rid bad wares off: and I must tell you,
If you will know where breathes a complete man
(I speak it without flattery), turn your eyes,

And progress through yourself.

ANTONIO. Were there nor heaven nor hell,
I should be honest: I have long serv'd virtue,
And ne'er ta'en wages of her.

DUCHESS. Now she pays it.
The misery of us that are born great!
We are forc'd to woo, because none dare woo us;
And as a tyrant doubles with his words,
And fearfully equivocates, so we
Are forc'd to express our violent passions
In riddles and in dreams, and leave the path
Of simple virtue, which was never made
To seem the thing it is not. Go, go brag
You have left me heartless; mine is in your bosc
I hope 'twill multiply love there. You do tremb
Make not your heart so dead a piece of flesh,
To fear more than to love me. Sir, be confident
What is 't distracts you? This is flesh and blc
'Tis not the figure cut in alabaster
Kneels at my husband's tomb. Awake, awake, man!
I do here put off all vain ceremony,
And only do appear to you a young widow
That claims you for her husband, and, like a wic
I use but half a blush in 't.

ANTONIO. Truth speak for m
I will remain the constant sanctuary
Of your good name.

DUCHESS. I thank you, gentle love:
And 'cause you shall not come to me in debt,
Being now my steward, here upon your lips
I sign your Quietus est.[25] This you should ha
I have seen children oft eat sweetmeats thus,
As fearful to devour them too soon.

ANTONIO. But for your brothers?

DUCHESS. Do not think c
All discord without this circumference
Is only to be pitied, and not fear'd:
Yet, should they know it, time will easily
Scatter the tempest.

ANTONIO. These words should be mine
And all the parts you have spoke, if some part c
Would not have savour'd flattery.

DUCHESS. Kneel.
[Cariola comes from behind the arras.]

ANTONIO. Ha!

DUCHESS. Be not amaz'd; this woman 's of my cou
I have heard lawyers say, a contract in a chambe
Per verba [de] presenti[26] is absolute marriage
[She and ANTONIO kneel.]
Bless, heaven, this sacred gordian[27] which let Never untwine!

ANTONIO. And may our sweet affections, like the
Be still in motion!

DUCHESS. Quickening, and make
The like soft music!

ANTONIO. That we may imitate the loving palms,
Best emblem of a peaceful marriage,
That never bore fruit, divided!

DUCHESS. What can the church force more?

ANTONIO. That fortune may not know an accident,
Either of joy or sorrow, to divide
Our fixed wishes!

DUCHESS. How can the church build fast
We now are man and wife, and 'tis the church

That must but echo this.—Maid, stand apart:
I now am blind.

ANTONIO. What 's your conceit in this?

DUCHESS. I would have you lead your fortune by Unto your marriage-bed:
(You speak in me this, for we now are one:)
We 'll only lie and talk together, and plot
To appease my humorous[29] kindred; and if you p
Like the old tale in ALEXANDER AND LODOWICK,
Lay a naked sword between us, keep us chaste.
O, let me shrowd my blushes in your bosom,
Since 'tis the treasury of all my secrets!
[Exeunt DUCHESS and ANTONIO.]

CARIOLA. Whether the spirit of greatness or of Reign most in her, I know not; but it shows
A fearful madness. I owe her much of pity.
[Exit.]

Act II

Scene I[30]

[Enter] BOSOLA and CASTRUCCIO

BOSOLA. You say you would fain be taken for an

CASTRUCCIO. 'Tis the very main[31] of my ambit

BOSOLA. Let me see: you have a reasonable gooc and your night-cap expresses your ears sufficier have you learn to twirl the strings of your banc and in a set speech, at th' end of every sentenc or four times, or blow your nose till it smart a memory. When you come to be a president in crin smile upon a prisoner, hang him; but if you frov threaten him, let him be sure to scape the gallc

CASTRUCCIO. I would be a very merry president.

BOSOLA. Do not sup o' nights; 'twill beget you

CASTRUCCIO. Rather it would make me have a gooc for they say, your roaring boys eat meat seldom, so valiant. But how shall I know whether the pe an eminent fellow?

BOSOLA. I will teach a trick to know it: give and if you hear the common people curse you, be for one of the prime night-caps.[32]
[Enter an Old Lady]
You come from painting now.

OLD LADY. From what?

BOSOLA. Why, from your scurvy face-physic. To painted inclines somewhat near a miracle. These were deep ruts and foul sloughs the last progres
a lady in France that, having had the small-pox, her face to make it more level; and whereas befc like a nutmeg-grater, after she resembled an abc

OLD LADY. Do you call this painting?

BOSOLA. No, no, but you call [it] careening[34] morphewed[35] lady, to make her disembogue[36] a there 's rough-cast phrase to your plastic.[37]

OLD LADY. It seems you are well acquainted with

BOSOLA. One would suspect it for a shop of witc the fat of serpents, spawn of snakes, Jews' spit children's ordure; and all these for the face.
a dead pigeon taken from the soles of the feet c plague, than kiss one of you fasting. Here are of your youth is the very patrimony of the physi his foot-cloth with the spring, and change his h with the fall of the leaf. I do wonder you do r

Observe my meditation now.
What thing is in this outward form of man
To be belov'd? We account it ominous,
If nature do produce a colt, or lamb,
A fawn, or goat, in any limb resembling
A man, and fly from 't as a prodigy:
Man stands amaz'd to see his deformity
In any other creature but himself.
But in our own flesh though we bear diseases
Which have their true names only ta'en from beas
As the most ulcerous wolf and swinish measle,—
Though we are eaten up of lice and worms,
And though continually we bear about us
A rotten and dead body, we delight
To hide it in rich tissue: all our fear,
Nay, all our terror, is, lest our physician
Should put us in the ground to be made sweet.—
Your wife 's gone to Rome: you two couple, and the wells at Lucca to recover your aches. I hav

[Exeunt CASTRUCCIO and Old Lady]

I observe our duchess
Is sick a-days, she pukes, her stomach seethes,
The fins of her eye-lids look most teeming blue,
She wanes i' the cheek, and waxes fat i' the fla
And, contrary to our Italian fashion,
Wears a loose-bodied gown: there 's somewhat in
I have a trick may chance discover it,
A pretty one; I have bought some apricocks,
The first our spring yields.

[Enter ANTONIO and DELIO, talking together

DELIO. And so long since
You amaze me.

ANTONIO. Let me seal your lips for ever:
For, did I think that anything but th' air
Could carry these words from you, I should wish
You had no breath at all.—Now, sir, in your cont

You are studying to become a great wise fellow.

BOSOLA. O, sir, the opinion of wisdom is a foul that runs all over a man's body: if simplicity no evil, it directs us to a happy being; for the proceeds from the subtlest wisdom: let me be si

ANTONIO. I do understand your inside.

BOSOLA. Do you s

ANTONIO. Because you would not seem to appear t
Puff'd up with your preferment, you continue
This out-of-fashion melancholy: leave it, leave

BOSOLA. Give me leave to be honest in any phras whatsoever. Shall I confess myself to you? I l
I can reach: they are the gods that must ride c
A lawyer's mule of a slow pace will both suit my business; for, mark me, when a man's mind rides can gallop, they quickly both tire.

ANTONIO. You would look up to heaven, but I thi
The devil, that rules i' th' air, stands in your

BOSOLA. O, sir, you are lord of the ascendant, c the duchess: a duke was your cousin-german remo lineally descended from King Pepin, or he himsel Search the heads of the greatest rivers in the w them but bubbles of water. Some would think the were brought forth by some more weighty cause th persons: they are deceiv'd, there 's the same h passions sway them; the same reason that makes a a tithe-pig, and undo his neighbours, makes them province, and batter down goodly cities with the

[Enter DUCHESS and Ladies]

DUCHESS. Your arm, Antonio: do I not grow fat?
I am exceeding short-winded.—Bosola,

I would have you, sir, provide for me a litter;
Such a one as the Duchess of Florence rode in.

BOSOLA. The duchess us'd one when she was great

DUCHESS. I think she did.—Come hither, mend my Here, when? thou art such a tedious lady; and Thy breath smells of lemon-pills: would thou ha
Shall I swoon under thy fingers? I am
So troubled with the mother![41]

BOSOLA. [Aside.] I fear too much.

DUCHESS. I have heard you say that the French c
Wear their hats on 'fore that king.

ANTONIO. I have seen it.

DUCHESS. In the presence?

ANTONIO. Yes

DUCHESS. Why should not we bring up that fashic
'Tis ceremony more than duty that consists
In the removing of a piece of felt.
Be you the example to the rest o' th' court;
Put on your hat first.

ANTONIO. You must pardon me:
I have seen, in colder countries than in France,
Nobles stand bare to th' prince; and the distinc
Methought show'd reverently.

BOSOLA. I have a present for your grace.

DUCHESS. For m

BOSOLA. Apricocks, madam.

DUCHESS. O, sir, where are th

I have heard of none to-year[42]

BOSOLA. [Aside.] Good; her colour

DUCHESS. Indeed, I thank you: they are wondrou
What an unskilful fellow is our gardener!
We shall have none this month.

BOSOLA. Will not your grace pare them?

DUCHESS. No: they taste of musk, methinks; inc

BOSOLA. I know not: yet I wish your grace had DUCHESS. Why?

BOSOLA. I forgot to tell you, the knave
Only to raise his profit by them the sooner,
Did ripen them in horse-dung.

DUCHESS. O, you jest.—
You shall judge: pray, taste one.

ANTONIO. Indeed, mada
I do not love the fruit.

DUCHESS. Sir, you are loth
To rob us of our dainties. 'Tis a delicate frui
They say they are restorative.

BOSOLA. 'Tis a pretty art
This grafting.

DUCHESS. 'Tis so; a bettering of nature.

BOSOLA. To make a pippin grow upon a crab,
A damson on a black-thorn.—[Aside.] How greedily
A whirlwind strike off these bawd farthingales!
For, but for that and the loose-bodied gown,
I should have discover'd apparently[43]

The young springal[44] cutting a caper in her be

DUCHESS. I thank you, Bosola: they were right
If they do not make me sick.

ANTONIO. How now, madam!

DUCHESS. This green fruit and my stomach are nc
How they swell me!

BOSOLA. [Aside.] Nay, you are too much swell

DUCHESS. O, I am in an extreme cold sweat!

BOSOLA. I a
[Exit.]

DUCHESS. Lights to my chamber!—O good Antonio,
I fear I am undone!

DELIO. Lights there, lights!
Exeunt DUCHESS [and Ladies.]

ANTONIO. O my most trusty Delio, we are lost!
I fear she 's fall'n in labour; and there 's lei
No time for her remove.

DELIO. Have you prepar'd
Those ladies to attend her; and procur'd
That politic safe conveyance for the midwife
Your duchess plotted?

ANTONIO. I have.

DELIO. Make use, then, of this forc'd occasion.
Give out that Bosola hath poison'd her
With these apricocks; that will give some colour
For her keeping close.

ANTONIO. Fie, fie, the physicians

Will then flock to her.

DELIO. For that you may pretend
She'll use some prepar'd antidote of her own,
Lest the physicians should re-poison her.

ANTONIO. I am lost in amazement: I know not wh
Exeunt.

Scene II[45]

[Enter] BOSOLA and Old Lady

BOSOLA. So, so, there 's no question but her te and most vulturous eating of the apricocks are a of breeding, now?

OLD LADY. I am in haste, sir.

BOSOLA. There was a young waiting-woman had a n to see the glass-house——

OLD LADY. Nay, pray, let me go. I will hear nc of the glass-house. You are still[47] abusing v

BOSOLA. Who, I? No; only, by the way now and t frailties. The orange-tree bears ripe and green all together; and some of you give entertainment but more for more precious reward. The lusty sp but drooping autumn tastes well. If we have the that rained in the time of Jupiter the thunderer Danaes still, to hold up their laps to receive t never study the mathematics?

OLD LADY. What 's that, sir?

BOSOLA. Why, to know the trick how to make a ma centre. Go, go, give your foster-daughters gooc that the devil takes delight to hang at a woman'

a false rusty watch, that she cannot discern hov
[Exit Old Lady.]

[Enter ANTONIO, RODERIGO, and GRISOLAN]

ANTONIO. Shut up the court-gates.

RODERIGO. Why, sir? W

ANTONIO. Shut up the posterns presently, and ca
All the officers o' th' court.

GRISOLAN. I shall instantl
[Exit.]

ANTONIO. Who keeps the key o' th' park-gate?

RODERIGO. F

ANTONIO. Let him bring 't presently.

[Re-enter GRISOLAN with Servants]

FIRST SERVANT. O, gentleman o' th' court, the f

BOSOLA. [Aside.] If that these apricocks should Without my knowledge?

FIRST SERVANT.
There was taken even now a Switzer in the duches

SECOND SERVANT. A Switzer!

FIRST SERVANT. With a pistol——

SECOND SERVANT. There was a cunning traitor!

FIRST SERVANT.
And all the moulds of his buttons were leaden bu

SECOND SERVANT. O wicked cannibal!

FIRST SERVANT. 'Twas a French plot, upon my li

SECOND SERVANT. To see what the devil can do!

ANTONIO. [Are] all the officers here?

SERVANTS. We are.

ANTONIO. Gentlemen,
We have lost much plate, you know; and but this
Jewels, to the value of four thousand ducats,
Are missing in the duchess' cabinet.
Are the gates shut?

SERVANT. Yes.

ANTONIO. 'Tis the duchess' pl
Each officer be lock'd into his chamber
Till the sun-rising; and to send the keys
Of all their chests and of their outward doors
Into her bed-chamber. She is very sick.

RODERIGO. At her pleasure.

ANTONIO. She entreats you take 't not ill: th
Shall be the more approv'd by it.

BOSOLA. Gentlemen o' the wood-yard, where 's y

FIRST SERVANT. By this hand, 'twas credibly re
o' the black guard.[48]
[Exeunt all except ANTONIO and DELIO.]

DELIO. How fares it with the duchess?

ANTONIO. She 's
Unto the worst of torture, pain, and fear.

DELIO. Speak to her all happy comfort.

ANTONIO. How I do play the fool with mine own c
You are this night, dear friend, to post to Rome
My life lies in your service.

DELIO. Do not doubt me.

ANTONIO. O, 'tis far from me: and yet fear pre
Somewhat that looks like danger.

DELIO. Believe it,
'Tis but the shadow of your fear, no more:
How superstitiously we mind our evils!
The throwing down salt, or crossing of a hare,
Bleeding at nose, the stumbling of a horse,
Or singing of a cricket, are of power
To daunt whole man in us. Sir, fare you well:
I wish you all the joys of a bless'd father;
And, for my faith, lay this unto your breast,—
Old friends, like old swords, still are trusted
[Exit.]

[Enter CARIOLA]

CARIOLA. Sir, you are the happy father of a son
Your wife commends him to you.

ANTONIO. Blessed comfort!
For heaven' sake, tend her well: I 'll presently
Go set a figure for 's nativity.[50]
Exeunt.

Scene III[51]

[Enter BOSOLA, with a dark lantern]

BOSOLA. Sure I did hear a woman shriek: list,
And the sound came, if I receiv'd it right,

]From the duchess' lodgings. There 's some stra
In the confining all our courtiers
To their several wards: I must have part of it;
My intelligence will freeze else. List, again!
It may be 'twas the melancholy bird,
Best friend of silence and of solitariness,
The owl, that screamed so.—Ha! Antonio!

[Enter ANTONIO with a candle, his sword dra

ANTONIO. I heard some noise.—Who 's there? Wha

BOSOLA. Antonio, put not your face nor body
To such a forc'd expression of fear;
I am Bosola, your friend.

ANTONIO. Bosola!—
[Aside.] This mole does undermine me.—Heard you
A noise even now?

BOSOLA. From whence?

ANTONIO. From the duches

BOSOLA. Not I: did you?

ANTONIO. I did, or else I drea

BOSOLA. Let 's walk towards it.

ANTONIO. No: it may be
But the rising of the wind.

BOSOLA. Very likely.
Methinks 'tis very cold, and yet you sweat:
You look wildly.

ANTONIO. I have been setting a figure[
For the duchess' jewels.

BOSOLA. Ah, and how falls your
Do you find it radical?[53]

ANTONIO. What 's that to you?
'Tis rather to be question'd what design,
When all men were commanded to their lodgings,
Makes you a night-walker.

BOSOLA. In sooth, I 'll tell
Now all the court 's asleep, I thought the devil
Had least to do here; I came to say my prayers;
And if it do offend you I do so,
You are a fine courtier.

ANTONIO. [Aside.] This fellow will undo
You gave the duchess apricocks to-day:
Pray heaven they were not poison'd!

BOSOLA. Poison'd! a Spanish fig
For the imputation!

ANTONIO. Traitors are ever confident
Till they are discover'd. There were jewels sto
In my conceit, none are to be suspected
More than yourself.

BOSOLA. You are a false steward.

ANTONIO. Saucy slave, I 'll pull thee up by the BOSOLA. May be the ruin will crush you to piece

ANTONIO. You are an impudent snake indeed, sir:
Are you scarce warm, and do you show your sting?
You libel[54] well, sir?

BOSOLA. No, sir: copy it out,
And I will set my hand to 't.

ANTONIO. [Aside.] My nose bleeds.

One that were superstitious would count
This ominous, when it merely comes by chance.
Two letters, that are wrought here for my name,
Are drown'd in blood!
Mere accident.—For you, sir, I 'll take order
I' the morn you shall be safe.—[Aside.] 'Tis tha
Her lying-in.—Sir, this door you pass not:
I do not hold it fit that you come near
The duchess' lodgings, till you have quit yourse [Aside.] The great are like the base, nay, they
When they seek shameful ways to avoid shame.
Exit.

BOSOLA. Antonio hereabout did drop a paper:—
Some of your help, false friend.[56]—O, here it
What 's here? a child's nativity calculated!
[Reads.]
'The duchess was deliver'd of a son, 'tween the twelve and one in the night, Anno Dom. 1504,'—th this year—'decimo nono Decembris,'—that 's this 'taken according to the meridian of Malfi,'—that duchess: happy discovery!—'The lord of the firs being combust in the ascendant, signifies short and Mars being in a human sign, joined to the ta
Dragon, in the eighth house, doth threaten a vio
Caetera non scrutantur.'[57]

Why, now 'tis most apparent; this precise fellow
Is the duchess' bawd:—I have it to my wish!
This is a parcel of intelligency[58]
Our courtiers were cas'd up for: it needs must
That I must be committed on pretence
Of poisoning her; which I 'll endure, and laugh
If one could find the father now! but that
Time will discover. Old Castruccio
I' th' morning posts to Rome: by him I 'll send
A letter that shall make her brothers' galls
O'erflow their livers. This was a thrifty[59] w
Though lust do mask in ne'er so strange disguise
She 's oft found witty, but is never wise.

[Exit.]

Scene IV[60]

[Enter] CARDINAL and JULIA

CARDINAL. Sit: thou art my best of wishes. Pı
What trick didst thou invent to come to Rome
Without thy husband?

JULIA. Why, my lord, I told him
I came to visit an old anchorite[61]
Here for devotion.

CARDINAL. Thou art a witty false one,-
I mean, to him.

JULIA. You have prevail'd with me
Beyond my strongest thoughts; I would not now
Find you inconstant.

CARDINAL. Do not put thyself
To such a voluntary torture, which proceeds
Out of your own guilt.

JULIA. How, my lord!

CARDINAL. You fear
My constancy, because you have approv'd[62]
Those giddy and wild turnings in yourself.

JULIA. Did you e'er find them?

CARDINAL. Sooth, generali
A man might strive to make glass malleable,
Ere he should make them fixed.

JULIA. So, my lord.

CARDINAL. We had need go borrow that fantastic
Invented by Galileo the Florentine
To view another spacious world i' th' moon,
And look to find a constant woman there.

JULIA. This is very well, my lord.

CARDINAL. Why do you
Are tears your justification? The self-same tea
Will fall into your husband's bosom, lady,
With a loud protestation that you love him
Above the world. Come, I 'll love you wisely,
That 's jealously; since I am very certain
You cannot make me cuckold.

JULIA. I 'll go home
To my husband.

CARDINAL. You may thank me, lady,
I have taken you off your melancholy perch,
Bore you upon my fist, and show'd you game,
And let you fly at it.—I pray thee, kiss me.—
When thou wast with thy husband, thou wast watch
Like a tame elephant:—still you are to thank me:
Thou hadst only kisses from him and high feeding
But what delight was that? 'Twas just like one
That hath a little fing'ring on the lute,
Yet cannot tune it:—still you are to thank me.

JULIA. You told me of a piteous wound i' th' he
And a sick liver, when you woo'd me first,
And spake like one in physic.[63]

CARDINAL. Who 's that?——
[Enter Servant]
Rest firm, for my affection to thee,
Lightning moves slow to 't.

SERVANT. Madam, a gentleman,
That 's come post from Malfi, desires to see you

CARDINAL. Let him enter: I 'll withdraw.
Exit.

SERVANT. He s
Your husband, old Castruccio, is come to Rome,
Most pitifully tir'd with riding post.
[Exit.]

[Enter DELIO]

JULIA. [Aside.] Signior Delio! 'tis one of my c

DELIO. I was bold to come and see you.

JULIA. Sir, yc

DELIO. Do you lie here?

JULIA. Sure, your own experie
Will satisfy you no: our Roman prelates
Do not keep lodging for ladies.

DELIO. Very well:
I have brought you no commendations from your hu
For I know none by him.

JULIA. I hear he 's come to Rc

DELIO. I never knew man and beast, of a horse a
So weary of each other. If he had had a good ba
He would have undertook to have borne his horse,
His breech was so pitifully sore.

JULIA. Your laughter
Is my pity.

DELIO. Lady, I know not whether
You want money, but I have brought you some.

JULIA. From my husband?

DELIO. No, from mine own allo

JULIA. I must hear the condition, ere I be bour

DELIO. Look on 't, 'tis gold; hath it not a fir

JULIA. I have a bird more beautiful.

DELIO. Try the s

JULIA. A lute-string far exceeds it.
It hath no smell, like cassia or civet;
Nor is it physical,[64] though some fond doctors
Persuade us seethe 't in cullises.[65] I 'll tel
This is a creature bred by——

[Re-enter Servant]

SERVANT. Your husband 's
Hath deliver'd a letter to the Duke of Calabria
That, to my thinking, hath put him out of his wi
[Exit.]

JULIA. Sir, you hear:
Pray, let me know your business and your suit
As briefly as can be.

DELIO. With good speed: I would wish you,
At such time as you are non-resident
With your husband, my mistress.

JULIA. Sir, I 'll go ask my husband if I shall,
And straight return your answer.
Exit.

DELIO. Very fine!
Is this her wit, or honesty, that speaks thus?
I heard one say the duke was highly mov'd

With a letter sent from Malfi. I do fear Antonio is betray'd. How fearfully
Shows his ambition now! Unfortunate fortune!
They pass through whirl-pools, and deep woes do
Who the event weigh ere the action 's done.
Exit.

Scene V[66]

[Enter] CARDINAL and FERDINAND with a lette

FERDINAND. I have this night digg'd up a mandra

CARDINAL.

FERDINAND. And I am grown mad with 't.

CARDINAL. What 's

FERDINAND.
Read there,—a sister damn'd: she 's loose i' th
Grown a notorious strumpet.

CARDINAL. Speak lower.

FERDINAND. Lowe
Rogues do not whisper 't now, but seek to publis
(As servants do the bounty of their lords)
Aloud; and with a covetous searching eye,
To mark who note them. O, confusion seize her!
She hath had most cunning bawds to serve her tu
And more secure conveyances for lust
Than towns of garrison for service.

CARDINAL. Is 't possi
Can this be certain?

FERDINAND. Rhubarb, O, for rhubarb
To purge this choler! Here 's the cursed day

To prompt my memory; and here 't shall stick
Till of her bleeding heart I make a sponge
To wipe it out.

CARDINAL. Why do you make yourself
So wild a tempest?

FERDINAND. Would I could be one,
That I might toss her palace 'bout her ears,
Root up her goodly forests, blast her meads,
And lay her general territory as waste
As she hath done her honours.

CARDINAL. Shall our blood,
The royal blood of Arragon and Castile,
Be thus attainted?

FERDINAND. Apply desperate physic:
We must not now use balsamum, but fire,
The smarting cupping-glass, for that 's the mear
To purge infected blood, such blood as hers.
There is a kind of pity in mine eye,—
I 'll give it to my handkercher; and now 'tis he
I 'll bequeath this to her bastard.

CARDINAL. What to do?

FERDINAND. Why, to make soft lint for his mothe
When I have hew'd her to pieces.

CARDINAL. Curs'd creatu
Unequal nature, to place women's hearts
So far upon the left side![69]

FERDINAND. Foolish men,
That e'er will trust their honour in a bark
Made of so slight weak bulrush as is woman,
Apt every minute to sink it!

CARDINAL. Thus ignorance, when it hath purchas

It cannot wield it.

FERDINAND. Methinks I see her laughing
Excellent hyena! Talk to me somewhat quickly,
Or my imagination will carry me
To see her in the shameful act of sin.

CARDINAL. With whom?

FERDINAND. Happily with some strong-
Or one o' th' wood-yard that can quoit the sledg
Or toss the bar, or else some lovely squire
That carries coals up to her privy lodgings.

CARDINAL. You fly beyond your reason.

FERDINAND. Go to, m
'Tis not your whore's milk that shall quench my
But your whore's blood.

CARDINAL. How idly shows this rage, which carri
As men convey'd by witches through the air,
On violent whirlwinds! This intemperate noise
Fitly resembles deaf men's shrill discourse,
Who talk aloud, thinking all other men
To have their imperfection.

FERDINAND. Have not you
My palsy?

CARDINAL. Yes, [but] I can be angry
Without this rupture. There is not in nature
A thing that makes man so deform'd, so beastly,
As doth intemperate anger. Chide yourself.
You have divers men who never yet express'd
Their strong desire of rest but by unrest,
By vexing of themselves. Come, put yourself
In tune.

FERDINAND. So I will only study to seem

The thing I am not. I could kill her now,
In you, or in myself; for I do think
It is some sin in us heaven doth revenge
By her.

CARDINAL. Are you stark mad?

FERDINAND. I would have thei
Burnt in a coal-pit with the ventage stopp'd,
That their curs'd smoke might not ascend to heav
Or dip the sheets they lie in in pitch or sulphu
Wrap them in 't, and then light them like a matc
Or else to-boil[71] their bastard to a cullis,
And give 't his lecherous father to renew
The sin of his back.

CARDINAL. I 'll leave you.

FERDINAND. Nay, I h
I am confident, had I been damn'd in hell,
And should have heard of this, it would have put Into a cold sweat. In, in; I 'll go sleep.
Till I know who [loves] my sister, I 'll not sti
That known, I 'll find scorpions to string my wh
And fix her in a general eclipse.
Exeunt.

Act III

Scene I[72]

[Enter] ANTONIO and DELIO

ANTONIO. Our noble friend, my most beloved Deli
O, you have been a stranger long at court:
Came you along with the Lord Ferdinand?

DELIO. I did, sir: and how fares your noble du

ANTONIO. Right fortunately well: she 's an exc
Feeder of pedigrees; since you last saw her,
She hath had two children more, a son and daught

DELIO. Methinks 'twas yesterday. Let me but wi
And not behold your face, which to mine eye
Is somewhat leaner, verily I should dream
It were within this half hour.

ANTONIO. You have not been in law, friend Delic
Nor in prison, nor a suitor at the court,
Nor begg'd the reversion of some great man's pla
Nor troubled with an old wife, which doth make
Your time so insensibly hasten.

DELIO. Pray, sir, tell
Hath not this news arriv'd yet to the ear
Of the lord cardinal?

ANTONIO. I fear it hath:
The Lord Ferdinand, that 's newly come to court,
Doth bear himself right dangerously.

DELIO. Pray, why?

ANTONIO. He is so quiet that he seems to sleep
The tempest out, as dormice do in winter.
Those houses that are haunted are most still
Till the devil be up.

DELIO. What say the common peopl

ANTONIO. The common rabble do directly say
She is a strumpet.

DELIO. And your graver heads
Which would be politic, what censure they?

ANTONIO. They do observe I grow to infinite pur
The left hand way; and all suppose the duchess

Would amend it, if she could; for, say they,
Great princes, though they grudge their officers
Should have such large and unconfined means
To get wealth under them, will not complain,
Lest thereby they should make them odious
Unto the people. For other obligation
Of love or marriage between her and me
They never dream of.

DELIO. The Lord Ferdinand
Is going to bed.

[Enter DUCHESS, FERDINAND, and Attendants]

FERDINAND. I 'll instantly to bed,
For I am weary.—I am to bespeak
A husband for you.

DUCHESS. For me, sir! Pray, who is

FERDINAND. The great Count Malatesti.

DUCHESS. Fie upon
A count! He 's a mere stick of sugar-candy;
You may look quite through him. When I choose
A husband, I will marry for your honour.

FERDINAND. You shall do well in 't.—How is 't,

DUCHESS. But, sir, I am to have private confere
About a scandalous report is spread
Touching mine honour.

FERDINAND. Let me be ever deaf to 't
One of Pasquil's paper-bullets,[74] court-calumn
A pestilent air, which princes' palaces
Are seldom purg'd of. Yet, say that it were tru
I pour it in your bosom, my fix'd love
Would strongly excuse, extenuate, nay, deny
Faults, were they apparent in you. Go, be safe

In your own innocency.

DUCHESS. [Aside.] O bless'd comfort!
This deadly air is purg'd.
Exeunt [DUCHESS, ANTONIO, DELIO, and Attenc

FERDINAND. Her guilt treads on Hot-burning coulters.[75]
Enter BOSOLA
Now, Bosola,
How thrives our intelligence?[76]

BOSOLA. Sir, uncertainly:
'Tis rumour'd she hath had three bastards, but
By whom we may go read i' the stars.

FERDINAND. Why, some
Hold opinion all things are written there.

BOSOLA. Yes, if we could find spectacles to rea
I do suspect there hath been some sorcery
Us'd on the duchess.

FERDINAND. Sorcery! to what purpose?

BOSOLA. To make her dote on some desertless fel
She shames to acknowledge.

FERDINAND. Can your faith give
To think there 's power in potions or in charms,
To make us love whether we will or no?

BOSOLA. Most certainly.

FERDINAND. Away! these are mere gulleries,[77]
Invented by some cheating mountebanks
To abuse us. Do you think that herbs or charms
Can force the will? Some trials have been made
In this foolish practice, but the ingredients
Were lenitive[78] poisons, such as are of force

To make the patient mad; and straight the witch
Swears by equivocation they are in love.
The witch-craft lies in her rank blood. This ni
I will force confession from her. You told me
You had got, within these two days, a false key
Into her bed-chamber.

BOSOLA. I have.

FERDINAND. As I would wish.

BOSOLA. What do you intend to do?

FERDINAND. Can you gues

BOSOLA.

FERDINAND. Do not ask, then:
He that can compass me, and know my drifts,
May say he hath put a girdle 'bout the world,
And sounded all her quick-sands.

BOSOLA. I do not Think so.

FERDINAND. What do you think, then, pray?

BOSOLA. That
Are your own chronicle too much, and grossly Flatter yourself.

FERDINAND. Give me thy hand; I thank the
I never gave pension but to flatterers,
Till I entertained thee. Farewell.
That friend a great man's ruin strongly checks,
Who rails into his belief all his defects.
Exeunt.

Scene II[79]

[Enter] DUCHESS, ANTONIO, and CARIOLA

DUCHESS. Bring me the casket hither, and the gl
You get no lodging here to-night, my lord.

ANTONIO. Indeed, I must persuade one.

DUCHESS. Very goo
I hope in time 'twill grow into a custom,
That noblemen shall come with cap and knee
To purchase a night's lodging of their wives.

ANTONIO. I must lie here.

DUCHESS. Must! You are a lor

ANTONIO. Indeed, my rule is only in the night.

DUCHESS. I 'll stop your mouth.
[Kisses him.]

ANTONIO. Nay, that 's but one; Venus had two so
To draw her chariot; I must have another.—
[She kisses him again.]
When wilt thou marry, Cariola?

CARIOLA. Never, my lord.

ANTONIO. O, fie upon this single life! forgo it
We read how Daphne, for her peevish [flight,][80
Became a fruitless bay-tree; Syrinx turn'd
To the pale empty reed; Anaxarete
Was frozen into marble: whereas those Which married, or prov'd kind unto their friends
Were by a gracious influence transhap'd
Into the olive, pomegranate, mulberry,
Became flowers, precious stones, or eminent star

CARIOLA. This is a vain poetry: but I pray you

If there were propos'd me, wisdom, riches, and l
In three several young men, which should I choos

ANTONIO. 'Tis a hard question. This was Paris'
And he was blind in 't, and there was a great ca
For how was 't possible he could judge right,
Having three amorous goddesses in view,
And they stark naked? 'Twas a motion
Were able to benight the apprehension
Of the severest counsellor of Europe.
Now I look on both your faces so well form'd,
It puts me in mind of a question I would ask.

CARIOLA. What is 't?

ANTONIO. I do wonder why hard-favo
For the most part, keep worse-favour'd waiting-w
To attend them, and cannot endure fair ones.

DUCHESS. O, that 's soon answer'd.
Did you ever in your life know an ill painter
Desire to have his dwelling next door to the sho
Of an excellent picture-maker? 'Twould disgrace
His face-making, and undo him. I prithee,
When were we so merry?—My hair tangles.

ANTONIO. Pray thee, Cariola, let 's steal forth
And let her talk to herself: I have divers time
Serv'd her the like, when she hath chaf'd extrem
I love to see her angry. Softly, Cariola.
Exeunt [ANTONIO and CARIOLA.]

DUCHESS. Doth not the colour of my hair 'gin to
When I wax gray, I shall have all the court
Powder their hair with arras,[81] to be like me.
You have cause to love me; I ent'red you into my [Enter FERDINAND unseen]
Before you would vouchsafe to call for the keys.
We shall one day have my brothers take you nappi
Methinks his presence, being now in court,

Should make you keep your own bed; but you 'll s
Love mix'd with fear is sweetest. I 'll assure
You shall get no more children till my brothers Consent to be your gossips. Have you lost your
'Tis welcome:
For know, whether I am doom'd to live or die,
I can do both like a prince.

FERDINAND. Die, then, quickly
Giving her a poniard.
Virtue, where art thou hid? What hideous thing
Is it that doth eclipse thee?

DUCHESS. Pray, sir, hear m

FERDINAND. Or is it true thou art but a bare na
And no essential thing?

DUCHESS. Sir——

FERDINAND. Do not speak.

DUCHESS. No, sir:
I will plant my soul in mine ears, to hear you.

FERDINAND. O most imperfect light of human reas
That mak'st [us] so unhappy to foresee
What we can least prevent! Pursue thy wishes,
And glory in them: there 's in shame no comfort
But to be past all bounds and sense of shame.

DUCHESS. I pray, sir, hear me: I am married.

FERDINAND.

DUCHESS. Happily, not to your liking: but for Alas, your shears do come untimely now
To clip the bird's wings that 's already flown!
Will you see my husband?

FERDINAND. Yes, if I could change
Eyes with a basilisk.

DUCHESS. Sure, you came hither
By his confederacy.

FERDINAND. The howling of a wolf
Is music to thee, screech-owl: prithee, peace.-
Whate'er thou art that hast enjoy'd my sister,
For I am sure thou hear'st me, for thine own sak
Let me not know thee. I came hither prepar'd
To work thy discovery; yet am now persuaded
It would beget such violent effects
As would damn us both. I would not for ten mill
I had beheld thee: therefore use all means
I never may have knowledge of thy name;
Enjoy thy lust still, and a wretched life,
On that condition.—And for thee, vile woman,
If thou do wish thy lecher may grow old
In thy embracements, I would have thee build
Such a room for him as our anchorites
To holier use inhabit. Let not the sun
Shine on him till he 's dead; let dogs and monke
Only converse with him, and such dumb things
To whom nature denies use to sound his name;
Do not keep a paraquito, lest she learn it;
If thou do love him, cut out thine own tongue,
Lest it bewray him.

DUCHESS. Why might not I marry?
I have not gone about in this to create
Any new world or custom.

FERDINAND. Thou art undone;
And thou hast ta'en that massy sheet of lead
That hid thy husband's bones, and folded it
About my heart.

DUCHESS. Mine bleeds for 't.

FERDINAND. Thine! thy
What should I name 't unless a hollow bullet
Fill'd with unquenchable wild-fire?

DUCHESS. You are in Too strict; and were you not my princely brothe
I would say, too wilful: my reputation
Is safe.

FERDINAND. Dost thou know what reputation is?
I 'll tell thee,—to small purpose, since the ins
Comes now too late.
Upon a time Reputation, Love, and Death,
Would travel o'er the world; and it was conclude
That they should part, and take three several wa
Death told them, they should find him in great k
Or cities plagu'd with plagues: Love gives them
To inquire for him 'mongst unambitious shepherds
Where dowries were not talk'd of, and sometimes
'Mongst quiet kindred that had nothing left
By their dead parents: 'Stay,' quoth Reputatior
'Do not forsake me; for it is my nature,
If once I part from any man I meet,
I am never found again.' And so for you:
You have shook hands with Reputation,
And made him invisible. So, fare you well:
I will never see you more.

DUCHESS. Why should only I,
Of all the other princes of the world,
Be cas'd up, like a holy relic? I have youth
And a little beauty.

FERDINAND. So you have some virgins
That are witches. I will never see thee more.
Exit.

Re-enter ANTONIO with a pistol, [and CARIOL

DUCHESS. You saw this apparition?

ANTONIO. Yes: we are Betray'd. How came he hither? I should turn
This to thee, for that.

CARIOLA. Pray, sir, do; and wher
That you have cleft my heart, you shall read the Mine innocence.

DUCHESS. That gallery gave him entrance.

ANTONIO. I would this terrible thing would come
That, standing on my guard, I might relate
My warrantable love.—
(She shows the poniard.)
Ha! what means this?

DUCHESS. He left this with me.

ANTONIO. And it seems di
You would use it on yourself.

DUCHESS. His action seem'd
To intend so much.

ANTONIO. This hath a handle to 't,
As well as a point: turn it towards him, and
So fasten the keen edge in his rank gall.
[Knocking within.]
How now! who knocks? More earthquakes?

DUCHESS. I stand
As if a mine beneath my feet were ready
To be blown up.

CARIOLA. 'Tis Bosola.

DUCHESS. Away!
O misery! methinks unjust actions
Should wear these masks and curtains, and not we

You must instantly part hence: I have fashion'c

Exit ANTONIO.

Enter BOSOLA

BOSOLA. The duke your brother is ta'en up in a
Hath took horse, and 's rid post to Rome.

DUCHESS. So la

BOSOLA. He told me, as he mounted into the sadc
You were undone.

DUCHESS. Indeed, I am very near it.

BOSOLA. What 's the matter?

DUCHESS. Antonio, the master of our household,
Hath dealt so falsely with me in 's accounts.
My brother stood engag'd with me for money
Ta'en up of certain Neapolitan Jews,
And Antonio lets the bonds be forfeit.

BOSOLA. Strange!—[Aside.] This is cunning.

DUCHESS. And hereupon
My brother's bills at Naples are protested
Against.—Call up our officers.

BOSOLA. I shall.

Exit.

[Re-enter ANTONIO]

DUCHESS. The place that you must fly to is Ancc
Hire a house there; I 'll send after you
My treasure and my jewels. Our weak safety
Runs upon enginous wheels:[82] short syllables
Must stand for periods. I must now accuse you
Of such a feigned crime as Tasso calls

Magnanima menzogna, a noble lie,
'Cause it must shield our honours.—Hark! they ar

[Re-enter BOSOLA and Officers]

ANTONIO. Will your grace hear me?

DUCHESS. I have got well by you; you have yield
A million of loss: I am like to inherit
The people's curses for your stewardship.
You had the trick in audit-time to be sick,
Till I had sign'd your quietus;[83] and that cur
Without help of a doctor.—Gentlemen,
I would have this man be an example to you all;
So shall you hold my favour; I pray, let him;
For h'as done that, alas, you would not think of
And, because I intend to be rid of him,
I mean not to publish.—Use your fortune elsewher

ANTONIO. I am strongly arm'd to brook my overth
As commonly men bear with a hard year.
I will not blame the cause on 't; but do think
The necessity of my malevolent star
Procures this, not her humour. O, the inconstan
And rotten ground of service! You may see,
'Tis even like him, that in a winter night,
Takes a long slumber o'er a dying fire,
A-loth to part from 't; yet parts thence as cold
As when he first sat down.

DUCHESS. We do confiscate,
Towards the satisfying of your accounts,
All that you have.

ANTONIO. I am all yours; and 'tis ver
All mine should be so.

DUCHESS. So, sir, you have your p

ANTONIO. You may see, gentlemen, what 'tis to s

A prince with body and soul.
Exit.

BOSOLA. Here 's an example for extortion: what out of the sea, when foul weather comes, pours c the sea again.

DUCHESS. I would know what are your opinions
Of this Antonio.

SECOND OFFICER. He could not abide to see a pig
I thought your grace would find him a Jew.

THIRD OFFICER. I would you had been his officer

FOURTH OFFICER. You would have had more money.

FIRST OFFICER. He stopped his ears with black w to him for money said he was thick of hearing.

SECOND OFFICER. Some said he was an hermaphrodi abide a woman.

FOURTH OFFICER. How scurvy proud he would look was full! Well, let him go.

FIRST OFFICER. Yes, and the chippings of the bu to scour his gold chain.[84]

DUCHESS. Leave us.
Exeunt [Officers.]
What do you think of these?

BOSOLA. That these are rogues that in 's prospe
But to have waited on his fortune, could have wi
His dirty stirrup riveted through their noses,
And follow'd after 's mule, like a bear in a rin
Would have prostituted their daughters to his lu
Made their first-born intelligencers;[85] though
But such as were born under his blest planet,

And wore his livery: and do these lice drop of
Well, never look to have the like again:
He hath left a sort[86] of flattering rogues be
Their doom must follow. Princes pay flatterers
In their own money: flatterers dissemble their
And they dissemble their lies; that 's justice.
Alas, poor gentleman!

DUCHESS. Poor! he hath amply fill'd his coffer

BOSOLA. Sure, he was too honest. Pluto,[87] t
When he 's sent by Jupiter to any man,
He goes limping, to signify that wealth
That comes on God's name comes slowly; but when
On the devil's errand, he rides post and comes
Let me show you what a most unvalu'd jewel
You have in a wanton humour thrown away,
To bless the man shall find him. He was an exc
Courtier and most faithful; a soldier that thou
As beastly to know his own value too little
As devilish to acknowledge it too much.
Both his virtue and form deserv'd a far better
His discourse rather delighted to judge itself
His breast was fill'd with all perfection,
And yet it seemed a private whisp'ring-room,
It made so little noise of 't.

DUCHESS. But he was basely descended.

BOSOLA. Will you make yourself a mercenary her
Rather to examine men's pedigrees than virtues?
You shall want[89] him:
For know an honest statesman to a prince
Is like a cedar planted by a spring;
The spring bathes the tree's root, the grateful
Rewards it with his shadow: you have not done
I would sooner swim to the Bermoothes on
Two politicians' rotten bladders, tied Together with an intelligencer's heart-string,
Than depend on so changeable a prince's favour.

Fare thee well, Antonio! Since the malice of th
Would needs down with thee, it cannot be said ye
That any ill happen'd unto thee, considering thy
Was accompanied with virtue.

DUCHESS. O, you render me excellent music!

BOSOLA. Say

DUCHESS. This good one that you speak of is my

BOSOLA. Do I not dream? Can this ambitious age
Have so much goodness in 't as to prefer
A man merely for worth, without these shadows
Of wealth and painted honours? Possible?

DUCHESS. I have had three children by him.

BOSOLA. For
For you have made your private nuptial bed
The humble and fair seminary of peace,
No question but: many an unbenefic'd scholar
Shall pray for you for this deed, and rejoice
That some preferment in the world can yet
Arise from merit. The virgins of your land
That have no dowries shall hope your example
Will raise them to rich husbands. Should you wa
Soldiers, 'twould make the very Turks and Moors
Turn Christians, and serve you for this act.
Last, the neglected poets of your time,
In honour of this trophy of a man,
Rais'd by that curious engine, your white hand,
Shall thank you, in your grave, for 't; and make
More reverend than all the cabinets
Of living princes. For Antonio,
His fame shall likewise flow from many a pen,
When heralds shall want coats to sell to men.

DUCHESS. As I taste comfort in this friendly sp
So would I find concealment.

BOSOLA. O, the secret of my prince,
Which I will wear on th' inside of my heart!

DUCHESS. You shall take charge of all my coin a
And follow him; for he retires himself
To Ancona.

BOSOLA. So.

DUCHESS. Whither, within few days,
I mean to follow thee.

BOSOLA. Let me think:
I would wish your grace to feign a pilgrimage
To our Lady of Loretto, scarce seven leagues
]From fair Ancona; so may you depart
Your country with more honour, and your flight
Will seem a princely progress, retaining
Your usual train about you.

DUCHESS. Sir, your direction
Shall lead me by the hand.

CARIOLA. In my opinion,
She were better progress to the baths at Lucca,
Or go visit the Spa
In Germany; for, if you will believe me,
I do not like this jesting with religion,
This feigned pilgrimage.

DUCHESS. Thou art a superstitious fool:
Prepare us instantly for our departure.
Past sorrows, let us moderately lament them,
For those to come, seek wisely to prevent them.
[Exeunt DUCHESS and CARIOLA.]

BOSOLA. A politician is the devil's quilted an
He fashions all sins on him, and the blows
Are never heard: he may work in a lady's chambe

As here for proof. What rests[90] but I reveal
All to my lord? O, this base quality[91]
Of intelligencer! Why, every quality i' the wo
Prefers but gain or commendation:
Now, for this act I am certain to be rais'd,
And men that paint weeds to the life are prais'
[Exit.]

Scene III[92]

[Enter] CARDINAL, FERDINAND, MALATESTI, PE and SILVIO

CARDINAL. Must we turn soldier, then?

MALATESTI. The emp
Hearing your worth that way, ere you attain'd
This reverend garment, joins you in commission
With the right fortunate soldier the Marquis of
And the famous Lannoy.

CARDINAL. He that had the honour
Of taking the French king prisoner?

MALATESTI. The same.
Here 's a plot drawn for a new fortification
At Naples.

FERDINAND. This great Count Malatesti, I perce
Hath got employment?

DELIO. No employment, my lord;
A marginal note in the muster-book, that he is
A voluntary lord.

FERDINAND. He 's no soldier.

DELIO. He has worn gun-powder in 's hollow toot

SILVIO. He comes to the leaguer with a full int
To eat fresh beef and garlic, means to stay
Till the scent be gone, and straight return to c

DELIO. He hath read all the late service
As the City-Chronicle relates it;
And keeps two pewterers going, only to express
Battles in model.

SILVIO. Then he 'll fight by the book

DELIO. By the almanac, I think,
To choose good days and shun the critical;
That 's his mistress' scarf.

SILVIO. Yes, he protests
He would do much for that taffeta.

DELIO. I think he would run away from a battle,
To save it from taking prisoner.

SILVIO. He is horribly
Gun-powder will spoil the perfume on 't.

DELIO. I saw a Dutchman break his pate once
For calling him pot-gun; he made his head
Have a bore in 't like a musket.

SILVIO. I would he had made a touch-hole to 't.
He is indeed a guarded sumpter-cloth,[93]
Only for the remove of the court.

[Enter BOSOLA]

PESCARA. Bosola arriv'd! What should be the bu
Some falling-out amongst the cardinals.
These factions amongst great men, they are like
Foxes, when their heads are divided,
They carry fire in their tails, and all the cour
About them goes to wrack for 't.

SILVIO. What 's that E

DELIO. I knew him in Padua,—a fantastical schol study to know how many knots was in Hercules' cl Achilles' beard was, or whether Hector were not tooth-ache. He hath studied himself half blear-symmetry of Caesar's nose by a shoeing-horn; and the name of a speculative man.

PESCARA. Mark Prince Ferdinand:
A very salamander lives in 's eye,
To mock the eager violence of fire.

SILVIO. That cardinal hath made more bad faces than ever Michael Angelo made good ones. He lit a foul porpoise before a storm.

PESCARA. The Lord Ferdinand laughs.

DELIO. Like a dea
That lightens ere it smokes.

PESCARA. These are your true pangs of death,
The pangs of life, that struggle with great stat

DELIO. In such a deformed silence witches whisp

CARDINAL. Doth she make religion her riding-hoo
To keep her from the sun and tempest?

FERDINAND. That, that damns her. Methinks her
Blended together, show like leprosy,
The whiter, the fouler. I make it a question
Whether her beggarly brats were ever christ'ned.

CARDINAL. I will instantly solicit the state of
To have them banish'd.

FERDINAND. You are for Loretto:

I shall not be at your ceremony; fare you well.-
Write to the Duke of Malfi, my young nephew
She had by her first husband, and acquaint him
With 's mother's honesty.

BOSOLA. I will.

FERDINAND. Antonio!
A slave that only smell'd of ink and counters,
And never in 's life look'd like a gentleman,
But in the audit-time.—Go, go presently,
Draw me out an hundred and fifty of our horse,
And meet me at the foot-bridge.
Exeunt.

Scene IV

[Enter] Two Pilgrims to the Shrine of our l

FIRST PILGRIM. I have not seen a goodlier shrir
Yet I have visited many.

SECOND PILGRIM. The Cardinal of Arrago
Is this day to resign his cardinal's hat:
His sister duchess likewise is arriv'd
To pay her vow of pilgrimage. I expect
A noble ceremony.

FIRST PILGRIM. No question.—They come.

[Here the ceremony of the Cardinal's instal of a soldier, perform'd in delivering up hi and ring, at the shrine, and investing him shield, and spurs; then ANTONIO, the DUCHES having presented themselves at the shrine, of banishment in dumb-show expressed towarc
CARDINAL and the state of Ancona, banished:
ceremony, this ditty is sung, to very solem churchmen: and then exeunt [all except the Arms and honours deck thy story,

To thy fame's eternal glory!
Adverse fortune ever fly thee;
No disastrous fate come nigh thee!

I alone will sing thy praises,
Whom to honour virtue raises,
And thy study, that divine is,
Bent to martial discipline is,
Lay aside all those robes lie by thee;
Crown thy arts with arms, they 'll beautify thee

O worthy of worthiest name, adorn'd in this manr
Lead bravely thy forces on under war's warlike b
O, mayst thou prove fortunate in all martial cou
Guide thou still by skill in arts and forces!
Victory attend thee nigh, whilst fame sings louc Triumphant conquest crown thy head, and blessinc showers![94]

FIRST PILGRIM.
Here 's a strange turn of state! who would have
So great a lady would have match'd herself
Unto so mean a person? Yet the cardinal
Bears himself much too cruel.

SECOND PILGRIM. They are banish'd

FIRST PILGRIM. But I would ask what power hath
Of Ancona to determine of a free prince?

SECOND PILGRIM. They are a free state, sir, and How that the Pope, fore-hearing of her looseness
Hath seiz'd into th' protection of the church
The dukedom which she held as dowager.

FIRST PILGRIM. But by what justice?

SECOND PILGRIM. Sure, I th

Only her brother's instigation.

FIRST PILGRIM. What was it with such violence h
Off from her finger?

SECOND PILGRIM. 'Twas her wedding-ring;
Which he vow'd shortly he would sacrifice
To his revenge.

FIRST PILGRIM. Alas, Antonio!
If that a man be thrust into a well,
No matter who sets hand to 't, his own weight
Will bring him sooner to th' bottom. Come, let Fortune makes this conclusion general,
All things do help th' unhappy man to fall.
Exeunt.

Scene V[95]

[Enter] DUCHESS, ANTONIO, Children, CARIOLA

DUCHESS. Banish'd Ancona!

ANTONIO. Yes, you see what pc
Lightens in great men's breath.

DUCHESS. Is all our trai
Shrunk to this poor remainder?

ANTONIO. These poor men
Which have got little in your service, vow
To take your fortune: but your wiser buntings,
Now they are fledg'd, are gone.

DUCHESS. They have done
This puts me in mind of death: physicians thus,
With their hands full of money, use to give o'er
Their patients.

ANTONIO. Right the fashion of the world:
]From decay'd fortunes every flatterer shrinks;
Men cease to build where the foundation sinks.

DUCHESS. I had a very strange dream to-night.

ANTONIO.

DUCHESS. Methought I wore my coronet of state,
And on a sudden all the diamonds
Were chang'd to pearls.

ANTONIO. My interpretation
Is, you 'll weep shortly; for to me the pearls
Do signify your tears.

DUCHESS. The birds that live i' t
On the wild benefit of nature live
Happier than we; for they may choose their mates
And carol their sweet pleasures to the spring.

[Enter BOSOLA with a letter]

BOSOLA. You are happily o'erta'en.

DUCHESS. From my bro

BOSOLA. Yes, from the Lord Ferdinand your broth
All love and safety.

DUCHESS. Thou dost blanch mischief,
Would'st make it white. See, see, like to calm
At sea before a tempest, false hearts speak fair
To those they intend most mischief.
[Reads.] 'Send Antonio to me; I want his head in
A politic equivocation!
He doth not want your counsel, but your head;
That is, he cannot sleep till you be dead.
And here 's another pitfall that 's strew'd o'er
With roses; mark it, 'tis a cunning one:

[Reads.]
'I stand engaged for your husband for several let not that trouble him; I had rather have hi money':—
And I believe so too.

BOSOLA. What do you believe?

DUCHESS. That he so much distrusts my husband's
He will by no means believe his heart is with hi
Until he see it: the devil is not cunning enouc
To circumvent us In riddles.

BOSOLA. Will you reject that noble and free lea
Of amity and love which I present you?

DUCHESS. Their league is like that of some poli
Only to make themselves of strength and power
To be our after-ruin; tell them so.

BOSOLA. And what from you?

ANTONIO. Thus tell him; I wi

BOSOLA. And what of this?

ANTONIO. My brothers have dis
Bloodhounds abroad; which till I hear are muzzl
No truce, though hatch'd with ne'er such politic
Is safe, that hangs upon our enemies' will.
I 'll not come at them.

BOSOLA. This proclaims your bre
Every small thing draws a base mind to fear,
As the adamant draws iron. Fare you well, sir;
You shall shortly hear from 's.
Exit.

DUCHESS. I suspect some
Therefore by all my love I do conjure you

To take your eldest son, and fly towards Milan.
Let us not venture all this poor remainder
In one unlucky bottom.

ANTONIO. You counsel safely.
Best of my life, farewell. Since we must part,
Heaven hath a hand in 't; but no otherwise
Than as some curious artist takes in sunder
A clock or watch, when it is out of frame,
To bring 't in better order.

DUCHESS. I know not which is best,
To see you dead, or part with you.—Farewell, boy
Thou art happy that thou hast not understanding
To know thy misery; for all our wit
And reading brings us to a truer sense
Of sorrow.—In the eternal church, sir,
I do hope we shall not part thus.

ANTONIO. O, be of comf
Make patience a noble fortitude,
And think not how unkindly we are us'd:
Man, like to cassia, is prov'd best, being bruis

DUCHESS. Must I, like to slave-born Russian,
Account it praise to suffer tyranny?
And yet, O heaven, thy heavy hand is in 't!
I have seen my little boy oft scourge his top,
And compar'd myself to 't: naught made me e'er
Go right but heaven's scourge-stick.

ANTONIO. Do not wee
Heaven fashion'd us of nothing; and we strive
To bring ourselves to nothing.—Farewell, Cariola
And thy sweet armful.—If I do never see thee mor
Be a good mother to your little ones,
And save them from the tiger: fare you well.

DUCHESS. Let me look upon you once more, for th
Came from a dying father. Your kiss is colder

Than that I have seen an holy anchorite
Give to a dead man's skull.

ANTONIO. My heart is turn'd to a heavy lump of
With which I sound my danger: fare you well.
Exeunt [ANTONIO and his son.]

DUCHESS. My laurel is all withered.

CARIOLA. Look, madam, what a troop of armed mer
Make toward us!

Re-enter BOSOLA [visarded,] with a Guard

DUCHESS. O, they are very welcome:
When Fortune's wheel is over-charg'd with prince
The weight makes it move swift: I would have my
Be sudden.—I am your adventure, am I not?

BOSOLA. You are: you must see your husband no

DUCHESS. What devil art thou that counterfeit's

BOSOLA. Is that terrible? I would have you tel
Is that note worse that frights the silly birds
Out of the corn, or that which doth allure them
To the nets? You have heark'ned to the last toc

DUCHESS. O misery! like to a rusty o'ercharg'd
Shall I never fly in pieces?—Come, to what prisc

BOSOLA. To none.

DUCHESS. Whither, then?

BOSOLA. To your palac

DUCHESS.
That Charon's boat serves to convey all o'er
The dismal lake, but brings none back again.

BOSOLA. Your brothers mean you safety and pity.

DUCHESS.
With such a pity men preserve alive
Pheasants and quails, when they are not fat enou
To be eaten.

BOSOLA. These are your children?

DUCHESS. Yes.

BOSOLA. Can the

DUCHESS. No:
But I intend, since they were born accurs'd,
Curses shall be their first language.

BOSOLA. Fie, mada
Forget this base, low fellow——

DUCHESS. Were I a man,
I 'd beat that counterfeit face[97] into thy oth

BOSOLA. One of no birth.

DUCHESS. Say that he was born
Man is most happy when 's own actions
Be arguments and examples of his virtue.

BOSOLA. A barren, beggarly virtue.

DUCHESS. I prithee, who is greatest? Can you t
Sad tales befit my woe: I 'll tell you one.
A salmon, as she swam unto the sea.
Met with a dog-fish, who encounters her
With this rough language; 'Why art thou so bold
To mix thyself with our high state of floods,
Being no eminent courtier, but one
That for the calmest and fresh time o' th' year

Dost live in shallow rivers, rank'st thyself
With silly smelts and shrimps? And darest thou
Pass by our dog-ship without reverence?'
'O,' quoth the salmon, 'sister, be at peace:
Thank Jupiter we both have pass'd the net!
Our value never can be truly known,
Till in the fisher's basket we be shown:
I' th' market then my price may be the higher,
Even when I am nearest to the cook and fire.'
So to great men the moral may be stretched;
Men oft are valu'd high, when they're most wretc
But come, whither you please. I am arm'd 'gains
Bent to all sways of the oppressor's will:
There 's no deep valley but near some great hill
Exeunt.

Act IV

Scene I[98]

[Enter] FERDINAND and BOSOLA

FERDINAND. How doth our sister duchess bear her
In her imprisonment?

BOSOLA. Nobly: I 'll describe her
She 's sad as one long us'd to 't, and she seems Rather to welcome the end of misery
Than shun it; a behaviour so noble
As gives a majesty to adversity:
You may discern the shape of loveliness
More perfect in her tears than in her smiles:
She will muse for hours together; and her silenc
Methinks, expresseth more than if she spake.

FERDINAND. Her melancholy seems to be fortified
With a strange disdain.

BOSOLA. 'Tis so; and this restr

Like English mastives that grow fierce with tyir
Makes her too passionately apprehend
Those pleasures she is kept from.

FERDINAND. Curse upon he
I will no longer study in the book
Of another's heart. Inform her what I told you.
Exit.

[Enter DUCHESS and Attendants]

BOSOLA. All comfort to your grace!

DUCHESS. I will have
Pray thee, why dost thou wrap thy poison'd pills
In gold and sugar?

BOSOLA. Your elder brother, the Lord Ferdinand,
Is come to visit you, and sends you word,
'Cause once he rashly made a solemn vow
Never to see you more, he comes i' th' night;
And prays you gently neither torch nor taper
Shine in your chamber. He will kiss your hand,
And reconcile himself; but for his vow
He dares not see you.

DUCHESS. At his pleasure.—
Take hence the lights.—He 's come.
[Exeunt Attendants with lights.]

[Enter FERDINAND]

FERDINAND. Where are y

DUCHESS.

FERDINAND. This darkness suits you well.

DUCHESS. I wou

FERDINAND. You have it;
For I account it the honorabl'st revenge,
Where I may kill, to pardon.—Where are your cubs

DUCHESS. Whom?

FERDINAND. Call them your children;
For though our national law distinguish bastards
]From true legitimate issue, compassionate natur
Makes them all equal.

DUCHESS. Do you visit me for this?
You violate a sacrament o' th' church
Shall make you howl in hell for 't.

FERDINAND. It had been
Could you have liv'd thus always; for, indeed,
You were too much i' th' light:—but no more;
I come to seal my peace with you. Here 's a han
Gives her a dead man's hand.
To which you have vow'd much love; the ring upon
You gave.

DUCHESS. I affectionately kiss it.

FERDINAND. Pray, do, and bury the print of it a
I will leave this ring with you for a love-token
And the hand as sure as the ring; and do not dou
But you shall have the heart too. When you need
Send it to him that ow'd it; you shall see
Whether he can aid you.

DUCHESS. You are very cold:
I fear you are not well after your travel.—
Ha! lights!——O, horrible!

FERDINAND. Let her have lights
Exit.

DUCHESS. What witchcraft doth he practise, that

A dead man's hand here?
[Here is discovered, behind a traverse,[99] figures of ANTONIO and his children, appear they were dead.

BOSOLA. Look you, here 's the piece from which
He doth present you this sad spectacle,
That, now you know directly they are dead,
Hereafter you may wisely cease to grieve
For that which cannot be recovered.

DUCHESS. There is not between heaven and earth
I stay for after this. It wastes me more
Than were 't my picture, fashion'd out of wax,
Stuck with a magical needle, and then buried
In some foul dunghill; and yon 's an excellent p
For a tyrant, which I would account mercy.

BOSOLA. What

DUCHESS. If they would bind me to that lifeless
And let me freeze to death.

BOSOLA. Come, you must live

DUCHESS. That 's the greatest torture souls fee
In hell, that they must live, and cannot die.
Portia,[100] I 'll new kindle thy coals again,
And revive the rare and almost dead example
Of a loving wife.

BOSOLA. O, fie! despair? Remember
You are a Christian.

DUCHESS. The church enjoins fasting
I 'll starve myself to death.

BOSOLA. Leave this vain s
Things being at the worst begin to mend: the be
When he hath shot his sting into your hand,

May then play with your eye-lid.

DUCHESS. Good comfortak
Persuade a wretch that 's broke upon the wheel
To have all his bones new set; entreat him live
To be executed again. Who must despatch me?
I account this world a tedious theatre,
For I do play a part in 't 'gainst my will.

BOSOLA. Come, be of comfort; I will save your l

DUCHESS. Indeed, I have not leisure to tend so

BOSOLA. Now, by my life, I pity you.

DUCHESS. Thou art
To waste thy pity on a thing so wretched
As cannot pity itself. I am full of daggers.
Puff, let me blow these vipers from me.
[Enter Servant]
What are you?

SERVANT. One that wishes you long life.

DUCHESS. I would thou wert hang'd for the horri
Thou hast given me: I shall shortly grow one
Of the miracles of pity. I 'll go pray;—
[Exit Servant.]
No, I 'll go curse.

BOSOLA. O, fie!

DUCHESS. I could curse the

BOSOLA.

DUCHESS. And those three smiling seasons of the
Into a Russian winter; nay, the world
To its first chaos.

BOSOLA. Look you, the stars shine s

DUCHESS. O, but you must Remember, my curse hath a great way to go.—
Plagues, that make lanes through largest familie
Consume them!—

BOSOLA. Fie, lady!

DUCHESS. Let them, like tyra
Never be remembered but for the ill they have dc
Let all the zealous prayers of mortified
Churchmen forget them!—

BOSOLA. O, uncharitable!

DUCHESS. Let heaven a little while cease crown
To punish them!—
Go, howl them this, and say, I long to bleed:
It is some mercy when men kill with speed.
Exit.

[Re-enter FERDINAND]

FERDINAND. Excellent, as I would wish; she 's p
These presentations are but fram'd in wax
By the curious master in that quality,[102]
Vincentio Lauriola, and she takes them
For true substantial bodies.

BOSOLA. Why do you do this

FERDINAND. To bring her to despair.

BOSOLA. Faith, enc
And go no farther in your cruelty:
Send her a penitential garment to put on Next to her delicate skin, and furnish her
With beads and prayer-books.

FERDINAND. Damn her! that boc
While that my blood run pure in 't, was more wor
Than that which thou wouldst comfort, call'd a s
I will send her masques of common courtezans,
Have her meat serv'd up by bawds and ruffians,
And, 'cause she 'll needs be mad, I am resolv'd
To move forth the common hospital
All the mad-folk, and place them near her lodgir
There let them practise together, sing and dance
And act their gambols to the full o' th' moon:
If she can sleep the better for it, let her.
Your work is almost ended.

BOSOLA. Must I see her agair

FERDINAND. Yes.

BOSOLA. Never.

FERDINAND. You must.

BOSOLA. Never in mı
That 's forfeited by my intelligence[103]
And this last cruel lie: when you send me next,
The business shall be comfort.

FERDINAND. Very likely;
Thy pity is nothing of kin to thee, Antonio
Lurks about Milan: thou shalt shortly thither,
To feed a fire as great as my revenge,
Which nev'r will slack till it hath spent his fu
Intemperate agues make physicians cruel.
Exeunt.

Scene II[104]

[Enter] DUCHESS and CARIOLA

DUCHESS. What hideous noise was that?

CARIOLA. 'Tis the
Of madmen, lady, which your tyrant brother
Hath plac'd about your lodging. This tyranny,
I think, was never practis'd till this hour.

DUCHESS. Indeed, I thank him. Nothing but nois
Can keep me in my right wits; whereas reason
And silence make me stark mad. Sit down;
Discourse to me some dismal tragedy.

CARIOLA. O, 'twill increase your melancholy!

DUCHESS. I
To hear of greater grief would lessen mine.
This is a prison?

CARIOLA. Yes, but you shall live
To shake this durance off.

DUCHESS. Thou art a fool:
The robin-red-breast and the nightingale
Never live long in cages.

CARIOLA. Pray, dry your eyes.
What think you of, madam?

DUCHESS. Of nothing;
When I muse thus, I sleep.

CARIOLA. Like a madman, with your eyes open?

DUCHESS. Dost thou think we shall know one anot
In th' other world?

CARIOLA. Yes, out of question.

DUCHESS. O, that it were possible we might
But hold some two days' conference with the deac
]From them I should learn somewhat, I am sure,
I never shall know here. I 'll tell thee a mira

I am not mad yet, to my cause of sorrow:
Th' heaven o'er my head seems made of molten bra
The earth of flaming sulphur, yet I am not mad.
I am acquainted with sad misery
As the tann'd galley-slave is with his oar;
Necessity makes me suffer constantly,
And custom makes it easy. Who do I look like nc

CARIOLA. Like to your picture in the gallery,
A deal of life in show, but none in practice;
Or rather like some reverend monument
Whose ruins are even pitied.

DUCHESS. Very proper;
And Fortune seems only to have her eye-sight
To behold my tragedy.—How now!
What noise is that?

[Enter Servant]

SERVANT. I am come to tell you
Your brother hath intended you some sport.
A great physician, when the Pope was sick
Of a deep melancholy, presented him
With several sorts[106] of madmen, which wild ob
Being full of change and sport, forc'd him to la
And so the imposthume[107] broke: the self-same
The duke intends on you.

DUCHESS. Let them come in.

SERVANT. There 's a mad lawyer; and a secular p
A doctor that hath forfeited his wits
By jealousy; an astrologian
That in his works said such a day o' the month
Should be the day of doom, and, failing of 't,
Ran mad; an English tailor craz'd i' the brain
With the study of new fashions; a gentleman-ushe
Quite beside himself with care to keep in mind
The number of his lady's salutations

Or 'How do you,' she employ'd him in each mornir
A farmer, too, an excellent knave in grain,[108]
Mad 'cause he was hind'red transportation:[109]
And let one broker that 's mad loose to these,
You'd think the devil were among them.

DUCHESS. Sit, Cariola.—Let them loose when you
For I am chain'd to endure all your tyranny.

[Enter Madman]

Here by a Madman this song is sung to a dis

O, let us howl some heavy note,
Some deadly dogged howl,
Sounding as from the threatening throat
Of beasts and fatal fowl!
As ravens, screech-owls, bulls, and bears,
We 'll bell, and bawl our parts,
Till irksome noise have cloy'd your ears
And corrosiv'd your hearts.
At last, whenas our choir wants breath,
Our bodies being blest,
We 'll sing, like swans, to welcome death,
And die in love and rest.

FIRST MADMAN. Doom's-day not come yet! I 'll c a perspective,[110] or make a glass that shall s on fire upon an instant. I cannot sleep; my pi with a litter of porcupines.

SECOND MADMAN. Hell is a mere glass-house, whe are continually blowing up women's souls on hol and the fire never goes out.

FIRST MADMAN. I have skill in heraldry.

SECOND MADMAN. Hast?

FIRST MADMAN. You do give for your crest a woo with the brains picked out on 't; you are a very

THIRD MADMAN. Greek is turned Turk: we are onl the Helvetian translation.[111]

FIRST MADMAN. Come on, sir, I will lay the law

SECOND MADMAN. O, rather lay a corrosive: the to the bone.

THIRD MADMAN. He that drinks but to satisfy nat

FOURTH MADMAN. If I had my glass here, I would make all the women here call me mad doctor.

FIRST MADMAN. What 's he? a rope-maker?

SECOND MADMAN. No, no, no, a snuffling knave th
the tombs, will have his hand in a wench's plack

THIRD MADMAN. Woe to the caroche[113] that brou from the masque at three o'clock in the morning!
feather-bed in it.

FOURTH MADMAN. I have pared the devil's nails t them in raven's eggs, and cured agues with them.

THIRD MADMAN. Get me three hundred milch-bats, to procure sleep.

FOURTH MADMAN. All the college may throw their
I have made a soap-boiler costive; it was my mas

Here the dance, consisting of Eight Madmen, answerable thereunto; after which, BOSOLA, enters.

DUCHESS. Is he mad too?

SERVANT. Pray, question him. I

[Exeunt Servant and Madmen.]

BOSOLA. I am come to make thy tomb.

DUCHESS. Ha! my tom
Thou speak'st as if I lay upon my death-bed,
Gasping for breath. Dost thou perceive me sick?

BOSOLA.
Yes, and the more dangerously, since thy sickness

DUCHESS. Thou art not mad, sure: dost know me?

BOSOLA.

DUCHESS.

BOSOLA. Thou art a box of worm-seed, at best bu of green mummy.[116] What 's this flesh? a litt fantastical puff-paste. Our bodies are weaker t prisons boys use to keep flies in; more contempt is to preserve earth-worms. Didst thou ever see Such is the soul in the body: this world is lik of grass, and the heaven o'er our heads like her gives us a miserable knowledge of the small comp

DUCHESS. Am not I thy duchess?

BOSOLA. Thou art some great woman, sure, for ri on thy forehead (clad in gray hairs) twenty year a merry milk-maid's. Thou sleepest worse than i forced to take up her lodging in a cat's ear: a breeds its teeth, should it lie with thee, would wert the more unquiet bedfellow.

DUCHESS. I am Duchess of Malfi still.

BOSOLA. That makes thy sleep so broken:
Glories, like glow-worms, afar off shine bright,
But, look'd to near, have neither heat nor light

DUCHESS. Thou art very plain.

BOSOLA. My trade is to flatter the dead, not th
I am a tomb-maker.

DUCHESS. And thou comest to make my tomb?

BOSOLA. Yes.

DUCHESS. Let me be a little merry:—of what stu

BOSOLA. Nay, resolve me first, of what fashion?

DUCHESS. Why, do we grow fantastical on our dea
Do we affect fashion in the grave?

BOSOLA. Most ambitiously. Princes' images on t lie, as they were wont, seeming to pray up to he hands under their cheeks, as if they died of the are not carved with their eyes fix'd upon the st minds were wholly bent upon the world, the selfs to turn their faces.

DUCHESS. Let me know fully therefore the effect
Of this thy dismal preparation,
This talk fit for a charnel.

BOSOLA. Now I shall:—
[Enter Executioners, with] a coffin, cords,
Here is a present from your princely brothers;
And may it arrive welcome, for it brings
Last benefit, last sorrow.

DUCHESS. Let me see it:
I have so much obedience in my blood,
I wish it in their veins to do them good.

BOSOLA. This is your last presence-chamber.

CARIOLA. O my sweet lady!

DUCHESS. Peace; it affrights

BOSOLA. I am the common bellman
That usually is sent to condemn'd persons
The night before they suffer.

DUCHESS. Even now thou sa
Thou wast a tomb-maker.

BOSOLA. 'Twas to bring you
By degrees to mortification. Listen.

Hark, now everything is still,
The screech-owl and the whistler shrill
Call upon our dame aloud,
And bid her quickly don her shroud!
Much you had of land and rent;
Your length in clay 's now competent:
A long war disturb'd your mind;
Here your perfect peace is sign'd.
Of what is 't fools make such vain keeping?
Sin their conception, their birth weeping,
Their life a general mist of error,
Their death a hideous storm of terror.
Strew your hair with powders sweet,
Don clean linen, bathe your feet,
And (the foul fiend more to check)
A crucifix let bless your neck.
'Tis now full tide 'tween night and day;
End your groan, and come away.

CARIOLA. Hence, villains, tyrants, murderers! A
What will you do with my lady?—Call for help!

DUCHESS. To whom? To our next neighbours? The BOSOLA. Remove that noise.

DUCHESS. Farewell, Cariola.
In my last will I have not much to give:
A many hungry guests have fed upon me;
Thine will be a poor reversion.

CARIOLA. I will die with

DUCHESS. I pray thee, look thou giv'st my litt
Some syrup for his cold, and let the girl
Say her prayers ere she sleep.
[Cariola is forced out by the Executioners.
Now what you please:
What death?

BOSOLA. Strangling; here are your executio

DUCHESS. I forgive them:
The apoplexy, catarrh, or cough o' th' lungs,
Would do as much as they do.

BOSOLA. Doth not death fright you?

DUCHESS. Who would b
Knowing to meet such excellent company
In th' other world?

BOSOLA. Yet, methinks,
The manner of your death should much afflict you
This cord should terrify you.

DUCHESS. Not a whit:
What would it pleasure me to have my throat cut
With diamonds? or to be smothered
With cassia? or to be shot to death with pearls?
I know death hath ten thousand several doors
For men to take their exits; and 'tis found
They go on such strange geometrical hinges,
You may open them both ways: any way, for heave
So I were out of your whispering. Tell my broth
That I perceive death, now I am well awake,

Best gift is they can give or I can take.
I would fain put off my last woman's-fault,
I 'd not be tedious to you.

FIRST EXECUTIONER. We are ready.

DUCHESS. Dispose my breath how please you; but Bestow upon my women, will you?

FIRST EXECUTIONER. Yes.

DUCHESS. Pull, and pull strongly, for your able Must pull down heaven upon me:—
Yet stay; heaven-gates are not so highly arch'd
As princes' palaces; they that enter there
Must go upon their knees [Kneels].—Come, violent
Serve for mandragora to make me sleep!—
Go tell my brothers, when I am laid out,
They then may feed in quiet.
They strangle her.

BOSOLA. Where 's the waiting-woman??
Fetch her: some other strangle the children.
[Enter CARIOLA]
Look you, there sleeps your mistress.

CARIOLA. O, you ar
Perpetually for this! My turn is next;
Is 't not so ordered?

BOSOLA. Yes, and I am glad
You are so well prepar'd for 't.

CARIOLA. You are deceiv
I am not prepar'd for 't, I will not die;
I will first come to my answer,[118] and know
How I have offended.

BOSOLA. Come, despatch her.—
You kept her counsel; now you shall keep ours.

CARIOLA. I will not die, I must not; I am conti
To a young gentleman.

FIRST EXECUTIONER. Here 's your wedding-ring

CARIOLA. Let me but speak with the duke. I 'll
Treason to his person.

BOSOLA. Delays:—throttle her.

FIRST EXECUTIONER. She bites and scratches.

CARIOLA. I
I am damn'd; I have not been at confession
This two years.

BOSOLA. [To Executioners.] When?[119]

CARIOLA. I am quick wi

BOSOLA.
Your credit 's saved.
[Executioners strangle Cariola.]
Bear her into the next ro
Let these lie still.
[Exeunt the Executioners with the body of C

[Enter FERDINAND]

FERDINAND. Is she dead?

BOSOLA. She is what
You 'd have her. But here begin your pity:
Shows the Children strangled.
Alas, how have these offended?

FERDINAND. The death
Of young wolves is never to be pitied.

BOSOLA. Fix your eye here.

FERDINAND. Constantly.

BOSOLA. Do you
Other sins only speak; murder shrieks out.
The element of water moistens the earth,
But blood flies upwards and bedews the heavens.

FERDINAND. Cover her face; mine eyes dazzle: s

BOSOLA. I think not so; her infelicity
Seem'd to have years too many.

FERDINAND. She and I were twins;
And should I die this instant, I had liv'd
Her time to a minute.

BOSOLA. It seems she was born fi
You have bloodily approv'd the ancient truth,
That kindred commonly do worse agree
Than remote strangers.

FERDINAND. Let me see her face
Again. Why didst thou not pity her? What An excellent honest man mightst thou have been,
If thou hadst borne her to some sanctuary!
Or, bold in a good cause, oppos'd thyself,
With thy advanced sword above thy head,
Between her innocence and my revenge!
I bade thee, when I was distracted of my wits,
Go kill my dearest friend, and thou hast done 't
For let me but examine well the cause:
What was the meanness of her match to me?
Only I must confess I had a hope,
Had she continu'd widow, to have gain'd
An infinite mass of treasure by her death:
And that was the main cause,—her marriage,
That drew a stream of gall quite through my hea
For thee, as we observe in tragedies

That a good actor many times is curs'd
For playing a villain's part, I hate thee for 't
And, for my sake, say, thou hast done much ill w

BOSOLA. Let me quicken your memory, for I perce
You are falling into ingratitude: I challenge
The reward due to my service.

FERDINAND. I 'll tell thee
What I 'll give thee.

BOSOLA. Do.

FERDINAND. I 'll give thee a pa
For this murder.

BOSOLA. Ha!

FERDINAND. Yes, and 'tis
The largest bounty I can study to do thee.
By what authority didst thou execute
This bloody sentence?

BOSOLA. By yours.

FERDINAND. Mine! was I her judge?
Did any ceremonial form of law
Doom her to not-being? Did a complete jury
Deliver her conviction up i' the court?
Where shalt thou find this judgment register'd,
Unless in hell? See, like a bloody fool,
Thou 'st forfeited thy life, and thou shalt die

BOSOLA. The office of justice is perverted quit
When one thief hangs another. Who shall dare
To reveal this?

FERDINAND. O, I 'll tell thee;
The wolf shall find her grave, and scrape it up,
Not to devour the corpse, but to discover

The horrid murder.

BOSOLA. You, not I, shall quake for

FERDINAND. Leave me.

BOSOLA. I will first receive my p

FERDINAND. You are a villain.

BOSOLA. When your ingrat
Is judge, I am so.

FERDINAND. O horror,
That not the fear of him which binds the devils
Can prescribe man obedience!—
Never look upon me more.

BOSOLA. Why, fare thee well.
Your brother and yourself are worthy men!
You have a pair of hearts are hollow graves,
Rotten, and rotting others; and your vengeance,
Like two chain'd-bullets, still goes arm in arm:
You may be brothers; for treason, like the plagu
Doth take much in a blood. I stand like one
That long hath ta'en a sweet and golden dream:
I am angry with myself, now that I wake.

FERDINAND. Get thee into some unknown part o' t
That I may never see thee.

BOSOLA. Let me know
Wherefore I should be thus neglected. Sir,
I serv'd your tyranny, and rather strove
To satisfy yourself than all the world:
And though I loath'd the evil, yet I lov'd
You that did counsel it; and rather sought
To appear a true servant than an honest man.

FERDINAND. I 'll go hunt the badger by owl-ligh

'Tis a deed of darkness.
Exit.

BOSOLA. He 's much distracted. Off, my painted
While with vain hopes our faculties we tire,
We seem to sweat in ice and freeze in fire.
What would I do, were this to do again?
I would not change my peace of conscience
For all the wealth of Europe.—She stirs; here 's
Return, fair soul, from darkness, and lead mine
Out of this sensible hell:—she 's warm, she brea
Upon thy pale lips I will melt my heart,
To store them with fresh colour.—Who 's there?
Some cordial drink!—Alas! I dare not call:
So pity would destroy pity.—Her eye opes,
And heaven in it seems to ope, that late was shu
To take me up to mercy.

DUCHESS. Antonio!

BOSOLA. Yes, madam, he is living;
The dead bodies you saw were but feign'd statues
He 's reconcil'd to your brothers; the Pope hath
The atonement.

DUCHESS. Mercy!
Dies.

BOSOLA. O, she 's gone again! there the cords o
O sacred innocence, that sweetly sleeps
On turtles' feathers, whilst a guilty conscience
Is a black register wherein is writ
All our good deeds and bad, a perspective
That shows us hell! That we cannot be suffer'd
To do good when we have a mind to it!
This is manly sorrow;
These tears, I am very certain, never grew
In my mother's milk. My estate is sunk
Below the degree of fear: where were
These penitent fountains while she was living?

O, they were frozen up! Here is a sight
As direful to my soul as is the sword
Unto a wretch hath slain his father.
Come, I 'll bear thee hence,
And execute thy last will; that 's deliver
Thy body to the reverend dispose
Of some good women: that the cruel tyrant
Shall not deny me. Then I 'll post to Milan,
Where somewhat I will speedily enact
Worth my dejection.

Exit [with the body].

Act V

Scene I[120]

[Enter] ANTONIO and DELIO

ANTONIO. What think you of my hope of reconcile
To the Arragonian brethren?

DELIO. I misdoubt it;
For though they have sent their letters of safe-
For your repair to Milan, they appear
But nets to entrap you. The Marquis of Pescara,
Under whom you hold certain land in cheat,[121]
Much 'gainst his noble nature hath been mov'd
To seize those lands; and some of his dependants
Are at this instant making it their suit
To be invested in your revenues.
I cannot think they mean well to your life
That do deprive you of your means of life,
Your living.

ANTONIO. You are still an heretic[122]
To any safety I can shape myself.

DELIO. Here comes the marquis: I will make mys
Petitioner for some part of your land,

To know whither it is flying.

ANTONIO. I pray, do.
[Withdraws.]

[Enter PESCARA]
DELIO. Sir, I have a suit to you.

PESCARA. To me?

DELIO. An e
There is the Citadel of Saint Bennet,
With some demesnes, of late in the possession
Of Antonio Bologna,—please you bestow them on me

PESCARA. You are my friend; but this is such a
Nor fit for me to give, nor you to take.

DELIO. No, sir?

PESCARA. I will give you ample reason f
Soon in private:—here 's the cardinal's mistress

[Enter JULIA]

JULIA. My lord, I am grown your poor petitioner
And should be an ill beggar, had I not
A great man's letter here, the cardinal's,
To court you in my favour.
[Gives a letter.]

PESCARA. He entreats for you
The Citadel of Saint Bennet, that belong'd
To the banish'd Bologna.

JULIA. Yes.

PESCARA. I could not have thought of a friend f
Pleasure with it: 'tis yours.

JULIA. Sir, I thank you
And he shall know how doubly I am engag'd
Both in your gift, and speediness of giving
Which makes your grant the greater.
Exit.

ANTONIO. How they fo
Themselves with my ruin!

DELIO. Sir, I am
Little bound to you.

PESCARA. Why?

DELIO. Because you deni'd this suit to me, and
To such a creature.

PESCARA. Do you know what it was?
It was Antonio's land; not forfeited
By course of law, but ravish'd from his throat
By the cardinal's entreaty. It were not fit
I should bestow so main a piece of wrong
Upon my friend; 'tis a gratification
Only due to a strumpet, for it is injustice.
Shall I sprinkle the pure blood of innocents
To make those followers I call my friends
Look ruddier upon me? I am glad
This land, ta'en from the owner by such wrong,
Returns again unto so foul an use
As salary for his lust. Learn, good Delio,
To ask noble things of me, and you shall find
I 'll be a noble giver.

DELIO. You instruct me well.

ANTONIO. Why, here 's a man now would fright im ]From sauciest beggars.

PESCARA. Prince Ferdinand 's come
Sick, as they give out, of an apoplexy;

But some say 'tis a frenzy: I am going
To visit him.
Exit.

ANTONIO. 'Tis a noble old fellow.

DELIO. What course do you mean to take, Antonic

ANTONIO. This night I mean to venture all my fc
Which is no more than a poor ling'ring life,
To the cardinal's worst of malice. I have got Private access to his chamber; and intend
To visit him about the mid of night,
As once his brother did our noble duchess.
It may be that the sudden apprehension
Of danger,—for I 'll go in mine own shape,—
When he shall see it fraight[123] with love and
May draw the poison out of him, and work
A friendly reconcilement. If it fail,
Yet it shall rid me of this infamous calling;
For better fall once than be ever falling.

DELIO. I 'll second you in all danger; and howe
My life keeps rank with yours.

ANTONIO. You are still my lov'd and best frienc
Exeunt.

Scene II[124]

[Enter] PESCARA and DOCTOR

PESCARA. Now, doctor, may I visit your patient?

DOCTOR. If 't please your lordship; but he 's i
To take the air here in the gallery
By my direction.

PESCARA. Pray thee, what 's his disease

DOCTOR. A very pestilent disease, my lord,
They call lycanthropia.

PESCARA. What 's that?
I need a dictionary to 't.

DOCTOR. I 'll tell you.
In those that are possess'd with 't there o'erfl
Such melancholy humour they imagine
Themselves to be transformed into wolves;
Steal forth to church-yards in the dead of night
And dig dead bodies up: as two nights since
One met the duke 'bout midnight in a lane
Behind Saint Mark's church, with the leg of a ma
Upon his shoulder; and he howl'd fearfully;
Said he was a wolf, only the difference
Was, a wolf's skin was hairy on the outside,
His on the inside; bade them take their swords,
Rip up his flesh, and try. Straight I was sent
And, having minister'd to him, found his grace
Very well recover'd.

PESCARA. I am glad on 't.

DOCTOR. Yet not without some
Of a relapse. If he grow to his fit again,
I 'll go a nearer way to work with him
Than ever Paracelsus dream'd of; if They 'll give me leave, I 'll buffet his madness Stand aside; he comes.

[Enter FERDINAND, CARDINAL, MALATESTI, and

FERDINAND. Leave me.

MALATESTI. Why doth your lordship love this sol

FERDINAND. Eagles commonly fly alone: they are and starlings that flock together. Look, what

MALATESTI. Nothing, my lord.

FERDINAND. Yes.

MALATESTI. 'Tis your shadow.

FERDINAND. Stay it; let it not haunt me.

MALATESTI. Impossible, if you move, and the sur

FERDINAND. I will throttle it.
[Throws himself down on his shadow.]

MALATESTI. O, my lord, you are angry with nothi

FERDINAND. You are a fool: how is 't possible my shadow, unless I fall upon 't? When I go to to carry a bribe; for, look you, good gifts ever for the worst persons.

PESCARA. Rise, good my lord.

FERDINAND. I am studying the art of patience.

PESCARA. 'Tis a noble virtue.

FERDINAND. To drive six snails before me from t neither use goad nor whip to them, but let them —the patient'st man i' th' world match me for an I 'll crawl after like a sheep-biter.[125]

CARDINAL. Force him up.
[They raise him.]

FERDINAND. Use me well, you were best. What I done: I 'll confess nothing.

DOCTOR. Now let me come to him.—Are you mad, my of your princely wits?

FERDINAND. What 's he?

PESCARA. Your doctor

FERDINAND. Let me have his beard saw'd off, and fil'd more civil.

DOCTOR. I must do mad tricks with him, for that on 't.—I have brought your grace a salamander's you from sun-burning.

FERDINAND. I have cruel sore eyes.

DOCTOR. The white of a cockatrix's[126] egg is

FERDINAND. Let it be a new-laid one, you were b
Hide me from him: physicians are like kings,—
They brook no contradiction.

DOCTOR. Now he begins to fear me: now let me a

CARDINAL. How now! put off your gown!

DOCTOR. Let me have some forty urinals filled w he and I 'll go pelt one another with them.—Now me.—Can you fetch a frisk,[127] sir?—Let him go, my peril: I find by his eye he stands in awe of as tame as a dormouse.

FERDINAND. Can you fetch your frisks, sir!—I wi a cullis,[128] flay off his skin to cover one of this rogue hath set i' th' cold yonder in Barber
—Hence, hence! you are all of you like beasts fo
[Throws the DOCTOR down and beats him.]
There 's nothing left of you but tongue and bell lechery.
[Exit.]

PESCARA. Doctor, he did not fear you thoroughly

DOCTOR. True; I was somewhat too forward.

BOSOLA. Mercy upon me, what a fatal judgment
Hath fall'n upon this Ferdinand!

PESCARA. Knows your gra
What accident hath brought unto the prince
This strange distraction?

CARDINAL. [Aside.] I must feign somewhat.—Thus
You have heard it rumour'd, for these many years
None of our family dies but there is seen
The shape of an old woman, which is given
By tradition to us to have been murder'd
By her nephews for her riches. Such a figure
One night, as the prince sat up late at 's book,
Appear'd to him; when crying out for help,
The gentleman of 's chamber found his grace
All on a cold sweat, alter'd much in face
And language: since which apparition,
He hath grown worse and worse, and I much fear
He cannot live.

BOSOLA. Sir, I would speak with you.

PESCARA. We 'll leave your grace,
Wishing to the sick prince, our noble lord,
All health of mind and body.

CARDINAL. You are most welc
[Exeunt PESCARA, MALATESTI, and DOCTOR.]
Are you come? so.—[Aside.] This fellow must not
By any means I had intelligence
In our duchess' death; for, though I counsell'd ]From Ferdinand.—Now, sir, how fares our sister?
I do not think but sorrow makes her look
Like to an oft-dy'd garment: she shall now
Take comfort from me. Why do you look so wildly

O, the fortune of your master here the prince
Dejects you; but be you of happy comfort:
If you 'll do one thing for me I 'll entreat,
Though he had a cold tomb-stone o'er his bones,
I 'd make you what you would be.

BOSOLA. Any thing;
Give it me in a breath, and let me fly to 't.
They that think long small expedition win,
For musing much o' th' end cannot begin.

[Enter JULIA]

JULIA. Sir, will you come into supper?

CARDINAL. I am bu

JULIA [Aside.] What an excellent shape hath tha
Exit.

CARDINAL. 'Tis thus. Antonio lurks here in Mi
Inquire him out, and kill him. While he lives,
Our sister cannot marry; and I have thought
Of an excellent match for her. Do this, and sty
Thy advancement.

BOSOLA. But by what means shall I find him out?

CARDINAL. There is a gentleman call'd Delio
Here in the camp, that hath been long approv'd
His loyal friend. Set eye upon that fellow;
Follow him to mass; may be Antonio,
Although he do account religion
But a school-name, for fashion of the world
May accompany him; or else go inquire out
Delio's confessor, and see if you can bribe
Him to reveal it. There are a thousand ways
A man might find to trace him; as to know
What fellows haunt the Jews for taking up
Great sums of money, for sure he 's in want;

Or else to go to the picture-makers, and learn
Who bought[130] her picture lately: some of the Happily may take.

BOSOLA. Well, I 'll not freeze i' th'
I would see that wretched thing, Antonio,
Above all sights i' th' world.

CARDINAL. Do, and be happy
Exit.

BOSOLA. This fellow doth breed basilisks in 's
He 's nothing else but murder; yet he seems
Not to have notice of the duchess' death.
'Tis his cunning: I must follow his example;
There cannot be a surer way to trace
Than that of an old fox.

[Re-enter JULIA, with a pistol]

JULIA. So, sir, you are well met.

BOSOLA. How Now!

JULIA. Nay, the doors are fast enough:
Now, sir, I will make you confess your treachery

BOSOLA. Treachery!

JULIA. Yes, confess to me
Which of my women 'twas you hir'd to put
Love-powder into my drink?

BOSOLA. Love-powder!

JULIA. Yes, when I was at Malfi.
Why should I fall in love with such a face else?
I have already suffer'd for thee so much pain,
The only remedy to do me good
Is to kill my longing.

BOSOLA. Sure, your pistol holds
Nothing but perfumes or kissing-comfits.[131]
Excellent lady!
You have a pretty way on 't to discover
Your longing. Come, come, I 'll disarm you,
And arm you thus: yet this is wondrous strange.

JULIA. Compare thy form and my eyes together,
You 'll find my love no such great miracle.
Now you 'll say
I am wanton: this nice modesty in ladies
Is but a troublesome familiar
That haunts them.

BOSOLA. Know you me, I am a blunt soldier.

JULIA. The
Sure, there wants fire where there are no lively
Of roughness.

BOSOLA. And I want compliment.

JULIA. Why, ignorance
In courtship cannot make you do amiss,
If you have a heart to do well.

BOSOLA. You are very fa

JULIA. Nay, if you lay beauty to my charge,
I must plead unguilty.

BOSOLA. Your bright eyes
Carry a quiver of darts in them sharper
Than sun-beams.

JULIA. You will mar me with commendati
Put yourself to the charge of courting me,
Whereas now I woo you.

BOSOLA. [Aside.] I have it, I will work upon th
Let us grow most amorously familiar:
If the great cardinal now should see me thus,
Would he not count me a villain?

JULIA. No; he might count me a wanton,
Not lay a scruple of offence on you;
For if I see and steal a diamond,
The fault is not i' th' stone, but in me the thi
That purloins it. I am sudden with you.
We that are great women of pleasure use to cut c
These uncertain wishes and unquiet longings,
And in an instant join the sweet delight
And the pretty excuse together. Had you been i
Under my chamber-window, even there
I should have courted you.

BOSOLA. O, you are an excellent lady!

JULIA. Bid me do somewhat for you presently
To express I love you.

BOSOLA. I will; and if you love
Fail not to effect it.
The cardinal is grown wondrous melancholy;
Demand the cause, let him not put you off
With feign'd excuse; discover the main ground or

JULIA. Why would you know this?

BOSOLA. I have depende
And I hear that he is fall'n in some disgrace
With the emperor: if he be, like the mice
That forsake falling houses, I would shift
To other dependance.

JULIA. You shall not need
Follow the wars: I 'll be your maintenance.

BOSOLA. And I your loyal servant: but I cannot Leave my calling.

JULIA. Not leave an ungrateful
General for the love of a sweet lady!
You are like some cannot sleep in feather-beds,
But must have blocks for their pillows.

BOSOLA. Will yo

JULIA. Cunningly.

BOSOLA. To-morrow I 'll expect th' intelligence

JULIA. To-morrow! get you into my cabinet;
You shall have it with you. Do not delay me,
No more than I do you: I am like one
That is condemn'd; I have my pardon promis'd,
But I would see it seal'd. Go, get you in:
You shall see my wind my tongue about his heart
Like a skein of silk.
[Exit BOSOLA.]

[Re-enter CARDINAL]

CARDINAL. Where are you?

[Enter Servants.]

SERVANTS. Here.

CARDINAL. Let none, upon your lives, have confe
With the Prince Ferdinand, unless I know it.—
[Aside] In this distraction he may reveal
The murder.
[Exeunt Servants.]
Yond 's my lingering consumption:
I am weary of her, and by any means
Would be quit of.

JULIA. How now, my lord! what ails y

CARDINAL. Nothing.

JULIA. O, you are much alter'd:
Come, I must be your secretary, and remove
This lead from off your bosom: what 's the matt

CARDINAL. I may not tell you.

JULIA. Are you so far in love with sorrow
You cannot part with part of it? Or think you
I cannot love your grace when you are sad
As well as merry? Or do you suspect
I, that have been a secret to your heart
These many winters, cannot be the same
Unto your tongue?

CARDINAL. Satisfy thy longing,—
The only way to make thee keep my counsel
Is, not to tell thee.

JULIA. Tell your echo this,
Or flatterers, that like echoes still report
What they hear though most imperfect, and not me
For if that you be true unto yourself,
I 'll know.

CARDINAL. Will you rack me?

JULIA. No, judgment sh
Draw it from you: it is an equal fault,
To tell one's secrets unto all or none.

CARDINAL. The first argues folly.

JULIA. But the last tyranny.

CARDINAL. Very well: why, imagine I have commi
Some secret deed which I desire the world
May never hear of.

JULIA. Therefore may not I know it?
You have conceal'd for me as great a sin
As adultery. Sir, never was occasion
For perfect trial of my constancy
Till now: sir, I beseech you——

CARDINAL. You 'll repe

JULIA. Never.

CARDINAL. It hurries thee to ruin: I 'll not t
Be well advis'd, and think what danger 'tis
To receive a prince's secrets. They that do,
Had need have their breasts hoop'd with adamant
To contain them. I pray thee, yet be satisfi'd;
Examine thine own frailty; 'tis more easy
To tie knots than unloose them. 'Tis a secret
That, like a ling'ring poison, may chance lie
Spread in thy veins, and kill thee seven year he

JULIA. Now you dally with me.

CARDINAL. No more; thou sh
By my appointment the great Duchess of Malfi
And two of her young children, four nights since
Were strangl'd.

JULIA. O heaven! sir, what have you dc

CARDINAL. How now? How settles this? Think yc
Will be a grave dark and obscure enough
For such a secret?

JULIA. You have undone yourself, si

CARDINAL. Why?

JULIA. It lies not in me to conceal it

CARDINAL.
Come, I will swear you to 't upon this book.

JULIA. Most religiously.

CARDINAL. Kiss it.
[She kisses the book.]
Now you shall never utter it; thy curiosity
Hath undone thee; thou 'rt poison'd with that bo
Because I knew thou couldst not keep my counsel,
I have bound thee to 't by death.

[Re-enter BOSOLA]

BOSOLA. For pity-sake, hold!

CARDINAL. Ha, Bosola!

JULIA. I fo
This equal piece of justice you have done;
For I betray'd your counsel to that fellow.
He over-heard it; that was the cause I said
It lay not in me to conceal it.

BOSOLA. O foolish woman,
Couldst not thou have poison'd him?

JULIA. 'Tis weakne
Too much to think what should have been done. I
I know not whither.
[Dies.]

CARDINAL. Wherefore com'st thou hithe

BOSOLA. That I might find a great man like your
Not out of his wits, as the Lord Ferdinand,
To remember my service.

CARDINAL. I 'll have thee hew'd in pieces.

BOSOLA. Make not yourself such a promise of tha
Which is not yours to dispose of.

CARDINAL. Who plac'd th

BOSOLA. Her lust, as she intended.

CARDINAL. Very well:
Now you know me for your fellow-murderer.

BOSOLA. And wherefore should you lay fair marbl
Upon your rotten purposes to me?
Unless you imitate some that do plot great treas
And when they have done, go hide themselves i' t
Of those were actors in 't?

CARDINAL. No more; there is
A fortune attends thee.

BOSOLA. Shall I go sue to Fortune any longer?
'Tis the fool's pilgrimage.

CARDINAL. I have honours in store for thee.

BOSOLA. There are a many ways that conduct to s
Honour, and some of them very dirty ones.

CARDINAL. Throw to the devil
Thy melancholy. The fire burns well;
What need we keep a stirring of 't, and make
A greater smother?[132] Thou wilt kill Antonio?

BOSOLA. Yes.

CARDINAL. Take up that body.

BOSOLA. I think I sha
Shortly grow the common bier for church-yards.

CARDINAL. I will allow thee some dozen of atter

To aid thee in the murder.

BOSOLA. O, by no means. Physicians that apply to any rank swelling use to cut off their tails, may run through them the faster: let me have nc to shed blood, less it make me have a greater wh to the gallows.

CARDINAL. Come to me after midnight, to help tc
That body to her own lodging. I 'll give out
She died o' th' plague; 'twill breed the less ir
After her death.

BOSOLA. Where 's Castruccio her husband?

CARDINAL. He 's rode to Naples, to take possess
Of Antonio's citadel.

BOSOLA. Believe me, you have done a very happy

CARDINAL. Fail not to come. There is the maste
Of our lodgings; and by that you may conceive
What trust I plant in you.

BOSOLA. You shall find me re
Exit CARDINAL.
O poor Antonio, though nothing be so needful
To thy estate as pity, yet I find
Nothing so dangerous! I must look to my footing
In such slippery ice-pavements men had need
To be frost-nail'd well, they may break their ne
The precedent 's here afore me. How this man Bears up in blood! seems fearless! Why, 'tis we Security some men call the suburbs of hell,
Only a dead wall between. Well, good Antonio,
I 'll seek thee out; and all my care shall be
To put thee into safety from the reach
Of these most cruel biters that have got
Some of thy blood already. It may be,
I 'll join with thee in a most just revenge.

The weakest arm is strong enough that strikes
With the sword of justice. Still methinks the c
Haunts me: there, there!—'Tis nothing but my me
O Penitence, let me truly taste thy cup,
That throws men down only to raise them up!
Exit.

Scene III[133]

[Enter] ANTONIO and DELIO. Echo (from the DELIO. Yond 's the cardinal's window. This for Grew from the ruins of an ancient abbey;

And to yond side o' th' river lies a wall,
Piece of a cloister, which in my opinion
Gives the best echo that you ever heard,
So hollow and so dismal, and withal
So plain in the distinction of our words,
That many have suppos'd it is a spirit
That answers.

ANTONIO. I do love these ancient ruins.
We never tread upon them but we set
Our foot upon some reverend history;
And, questionless, here in this open court,
Which now lies naked to the injuries
Of stormy weather, some men lie interr'd
Lov'd the church so well, and gave so largely to
They thought it should have canopied their bones
Till dooms-day. But all things have their end;
Churches and cities, which have diseases like to
Must have like death that we have.

ECHO. Like death t

DELIO. Now the echo hath caught you.

ANTONIO. It groan'd methought, and gave
A very deadly accent.

ECHO. Deadly accent.

DELIO. I told you 'twas a pretty one. You may
A huntsman, or a falconer, a musician,
Or a thing of sorrow.

ECHO. A thing of sorrow.

ANTONIO. Ay, sure, that suits it best.

ECHO. That su

ANTONIO. 'Tis very like my wife's voice.

ECHO. Ay, w

DELIO. Come, let us walk further from t.
I would not have you go to the cardinal's to-nig
Do not.

ECHO. Do not.

DELIO. Wisdom doth not more moderate wasting so Than time. Take time for 't; be mindful of thy ECHO. Be mindful of thy safety.

ANTONIO. Necessity compels me.
Make scrutiny through the passages
Of your own life, you 'll find it impossible
To fly your fate.

ECHO. O, fly your fate!

DELIO. Hark! the dead stones seem to have pity
And give you good counsel.

ANTONIO. Echo, I will not talk with thee,
For thou art a dead thing.

ECHO. Thou art a dead thir

ANTONIO. My duchess is asleep now,
And her little ones, I hope sweetly. O heaven,
Shall I never see her more?

ECHO. Never see her more.

ANTONIO. I mark'd not one repetition of the ecl
But that; and on the sudden a clear light
Presented me a face folded in sorrow.

DELIO. Your fancy merely.

ANTONIO. Come, I 'll be out c
For to live thus is not indeed to live;
It is a mockery and abuse of life.
I will not henceforth save myself by halves;
Lose all, or nothing.

DELIO. Your own virtue save you!
I 'll fetch your eldest son, and second you.
It may be that the sight of his own blood
Spread in so sweet a figure may beget
The more compassion. However, fare you well.
Though in our miseries Fortune have a part,
Yet in our noble sufferings she hath none.
Contempt of pain, that we may call our own.
Exeunt.

Scene IV[134]

[Enter] CARDINAL, PESCARA, MALATESTI, RODEI

CARDINAL. You shall not watch to-night by the s
His grace is very well recover'd.

MALATESTI. Good my lord, suffer us.

CARDINAL. O, by no n
The noise, and change of object in his eye,
Doth more distract him. I pray, all to bed;
And though you hear him in his violent fit,
Do not rise, I entreat you.

PESCARA. So, sir; we shall not.

CARDINAL. Nay, I must ha
Upon your honours, for I was enjoin'd to 't
By himself; and he seem'd to urge it sensibly.

PESCARA. Let our honours bind this trifle.

CARDINAL. Nor any of your followers.

MALATESTI. Neither.

CARDINAL. It may be, to make trial of your prom
When he 's asleep, myself will rise and feign
Some of his mad tricks, and cry out for help,
And feign myself in danger.

MALATESTI. If your throat were cutting,
I 'd not come at you, now I have protested agair

CARDINAL. Why, I thank you.

GRISOLAN. 'Twas a foul storm

RODERIGO. The Lord Ferdinand's chamber shook li

MALATESTI. 'Twas nothing put pure kindness in t
To rock his own child.
Exeunt [all except the CARDINAL].

CARDINAL. The reason why I would not suffer the
About my brother, is, because at midnight
I may with better privacy convey

Julia's body to her own lodging. O, my conscier
I would pray now; but the devil takes away my he
For having any confidence in prayer.
About this hour I appointed Bosola
To fetch the body. When he hath serv'd my turn,
He dies.
Exit.

[Enter BOSOLA]

BOSOLA. Ha! 'twas the cardinal's voice; I hearc
Bosola and my death. Listen; I hear one's foot

[Enter FERDINAND]

FERDINAND. Strangling is a very quiet death.

BOSOLA. [Aside.] Nay, then, I see I must stand

FERDINAND. What say to that? Whisper softly:
So; it must be done i' th' dark; the cardinal wc
a thousand pounds the doctor should see it.
Exit.

BOSOLA. My death is plotted; here 's the conseq
We value not desert nor Christian breath,
When we know black deeds must be cur'd with deat

[Enter ANTONIO and Servant]

SERVANT. Here stay, sir, and be confident, I pr
I 'll fetch you a dark lantern.
Exit.

ANTONIO. Could I take him at his prayers,
There were hope of pardon.

BOSOLA. Fall right, my sword!—
[Stabs him.]
I 'll not give thee so much leisure as to pray.

ANTONIO. O, I am gone! Thou hast ended a long
In a minute.

BOSOLA. What art thou?

ANTONIO. A most wretched th
That only have thy benefit in death,
To appear myself.

[Re-enter Servant with a lantern]

SERVANT. Where are you, sir?

ANTONIO. Very near my home.—Bosola!

SERVANT. O, misfortune!

BOSOLA. Smother thy pity, thou art dead else.—A
The man I would have sav'd 'bove mine own life!
We are merely the stars' tennis-balls, struck an
Which way please them.—O good Antonio,
I 'll whisper one thing in thy dying ear
Shall make thy heart break quickly! Thy fair du
And two sweet children——

ANTONIO. Their very names
Kindle a little life in me.

BOSOLA. Are murder'd.

ANTONIO. Some men have wish'd to die
At the hearing of sad tidings; I am glad
That I shall do 't in sadness.[135] I would not Wish my wounds balm'd nor heal'd, for I have no
To put my life to. In all our quest of greatnes
Like wanton boys whose pastime is their care,
We follow after bubbles blown in th' air.
Pleasure of life, what is 't? Only the good hou
Of an ague; merely a preparative to rest,

To endure vexation. I do not ask
The process of my death; only commend me
To Delio.

BOSOLA. Break, heart!

ANTONIO. And let my son fly the courts to princ
[Dies.]

BOSOLA. Thou seem'st to have lov'd Antonio.

SERVANT. I brought him hither,
To have reconcil'd him to the cardinal.

BOSOLA. I do not ask thee that.
Take him up, if thou tender thine own life,
And bear him where the lady Julia
Was wont to lodge.—O, my fate moves swift!
I have this cardinal in the forge already;
Now I 'll bring him to th' hammer. O direful mi
I will not imitate things glorious.
No more than base; I 'll be mine own example.—
On, on, and look thou represent, for silence,
The thing thou bear'st.[137]
Exeunt.

Scene V[138]

[Enter] CARDINAL, with a book

CARDINAL. I am puzzl'd in a question about hell
He says, in hell there 's one material fire,
And yet it shall not burn all men alike.
Lay him by. How tedious is a guilty conscience!
When I look into the fish-ponds in my garden,
Methinks I see a thing arm'd with a rake,
That seems to strike at me.
[Enter BOSOLA, and Servant bearing ANTONIO'
Now, art thou come?

Thou look'st ghastly;
There sits in thy face some great determination
Mix'd with some fear.

BOSOLA. Thus it lightens into act
I am come to kill thee.

CARDINAL. Ha!—Help! our guard!

BOSOLA. Thou art deceiv'd; they are out of thy

CARDINAL. Hold; and I will faithfully divide
Revenues with thee.

BOSOLA. Thy prayers and proffers
Are both unseasonable.

CARDINAL. Raise the watch!
We are betray'd!

BOSOLA. I have confin'd your flight:
I 'll suffer your retreat to Julia's chamber,
But no further.

CARDINAL. Help! we are betray'd!

[Enter, above, PESCARA, MALATESTI, RODERIGO

MALATESTI. Listen.

CARDINAL. My dukedom for rescue!

RODERIGO. Fie upon his counterfeiting!

MALATESTI. Why, 'tis not the cardinal.

RODERIGO. Yes, yes, 'tis he:
But, I 'll see him hang'd ere I 'll go down to h

CARDINAL. Here 's a plot upon me; I am assaulte

Unless some rescue!

GRISOLAN. He doth this pretty well;
But it will not serve to laugh me out of mine hc

CARDINAL. The sword's at my throat!

RODERIGO. You would

MALATESTI.
Come, come, let 's go to bed: he told us this n

PESCARA. He wish'd you should not come at him;
The accent of the voice sounds not in jest:
I 'll down to him, howsoever, and with engines
Force ope the doors.
[Exit above.]

RODERIGO. Let 's follow him aloof,
And note how the cardinal will laugh at him.
[Exeunt, above, MALATESTI, RODERIGO, and GI

BOSOLA. There 's for you first,
'Cause you shall not unbarricade the door
To let in rescue.
Kills the Servant.

CARDINAL. What cause hast thou to pursue my lit

BOSOLA.

CARDINAL. Antonio!

BOSOLA. Slain by my hand unwittingl
Pray, and be sudden. When thou kill'd'st thy si
Thou took'st from Justice her most equal balance
And left her naught but her sword.

CARDINAL. O, mercy!

BOSOLA. Now it seems thy greatness was only out
For thou fall'st faster of thyself than calamity
Can drive thee. I 'll not waste longer time; th
[Stabs him.]

CARDINAL. Thou hast hurt me.

BOSOLA. Again!

CARDINAL. Shall I c
Without any resistance?—Help, help, help!
I am slain!

[Enter FERDINAND]

FERDINAND. Th' alarum! Give me a fresh horse
Rally the vaunt-guard, or the day is lost,
Yield, yield! I give you the honour of arms
Shake my sword over you; will you yield?

CARDINAL. Help me; I am your brother!

FERDINAND. The devi
My brother fight upon the adverse party!
He wounds the CARDINAL, and, in the scuffle his death-wound.
There flies your ransom.

CARDINAL. O justice!
I suffer now for what hath former bin:
Sorrow is held the eldest child of sin.

FERDINAND. Now you 're brave fellows. Caesar's than Pompey's; Caesar died in the arms of prospe feet of disgrace. You both died in the field.
pain many times is taken away with the apprehens
as the tooth-ache with the sight of a barber tha it out. There 's philosophy for you.

BOSOLA. Now my revenge is perfect.—Sink, thou n

Kills FERDINAND.
Of my undoing!—The last part of my life
Hath done me best service.

FERDINAND. Give me some wet hay; I am broken-wi
I do account this world but a dog-kennel:
I will vault credit and affect high pleasures
Beyond death.

BOSOLA. He seems to come to himself,
Now he 's so near the bottom.

FERDINAND. My sister, O my sister! there 's the Whether we fall by ambition, blood, or lust,
Like diamonds, we are cut with our own dust.
[Dies.]

CARDINAL. Thou hast thy payment too.

BOSOLA. Yes, I hold my weary soul in my teeth;
'Tis ready to part from me. I do glory
That thou, which stood'st like a huge pyramid
Begun upon a large and ample base,
Shalt end in a little point, a kind of nothing.

[Enter, below, PESCARA, MALATESTI, RODERIGO

PESCARA. How now, my lord!

MALATESTI. O sad disaster!

RODERIGO. Ho

BOSOLA. Revenge for the Duchess of Malfi murder
By the Arragonian brethren; for Antonio
Slain by this hand; for lustful Julia
Poison'd by this man; and lastly for myself,
That was an actor in the main of all
Much 'gainst mine own good nature, yet i' the er Neglected.

PESCARA. How now, my lord!

CARDINAL. Look to my brothe
He gave us these large wounds, as we were strugg
Here i' th' rushes. And now, I pray, let me
Be laid by and never thought of.
[Dies.]

PESCARA. How fatally, it seems, he did withstar
His own rescue!

MALATESTI. Thou wretched thing of blood,
How came Antonio by his death?

BOSOLA. In a mist; I know not how:
Such a mistake as I have often seen
In a play. O, I am gone!
We are only like dead walls or vaulted graves,
That, ruin'd, yield no echo. Fare you well.
It may be pain, but no harm, to me to die
In so good a quarrel. O, this gloomy world!
In what a shadow, or deep pit of darkness,
Doth womanish and fearful mankind live!
Let worthy minds ne'er stagger in distrust
To suffer death or shame for what is just:
Mine is another voyage.
[Dies.]

PESCARA. The noble Delio, as I came to th' pala
Told me of Antonio's being here, and show'd me
A pretty gentleman, his son and heir.

[Enter DELIO, and ANTONIO'S Son]

MALATESTI. O sir, you come too late!

DELIO. I heard s
Was arm'd for 't, ere I came. Let us make noble
Of this great ruin; and join all our force

To establish this young hopeful gentleman
In 's mother's right. These wretched eminent th
Leave no more fame behind 'em, than should one
Fall in a frost, and leave his print in snow;
As soon as the sun shines, it ever melts,
Both form and matter. I have ever thought
Nature doth nothing so great for great men
As when she 's pleas'd to make them lords of tru
Integrity of life is fame's best friend,
Which nobly, beyond death, shall crown the end.
Exeunt.

FOOTNOTES:

1 (return)
[Malfi. The presence-chamber in the palace of the Duchess.]

2 (return)
[Prevent.]

3 (return)
[The same.]

4 (return)
[The reference is to the knightly sport of riding at the ring.]

5 (return)
[At the expense of.]

6 (return)
[Rolls of lint used to dress wounds.]

7 (return)
[Surgeons.]

8 (return)
[A small horse.]

9 (return)
[Ballasted.]

10 (return)
[A lively dance.]

11 (return)
[Throws into the shade.]

12 (return)
[At the point of.]

13 (return)
[Coaches.]

14 (return)
[Spy.]

15 (return)
[Cheats.]

16 (return)
[Spy.]

17 (return)
[Malfi. Gallery in the Duchess' palace.]

18 (return)
[Lustful.]

19 (return)
[Genesis xxxi., 31-42.]

20 (return)
[The net in which he caught Venus and Mars.]

21 (return)
[Housekeepers.]

22 (return)
[Produced.]

23 (return)
[Qq. read STRANGE.]

24 (return)
[Guess.]

25 (return)
[The phrase used to indicate that accounts had been examined and found correct.]

26 (return)
[Using words of present time; i.e.,

"I take," not "I will take."]

27 (return)
[Knot.]

28 (return)
[More firmly.]

29 (return)
[Of difficult disposition.]

30 (return)
[Malfi. An apartment in the palace of the Duchess.]

31 (return)
[Chief part.]

32 (return)
[Bullies (Hazlitt); lawyers (Vaughan).]

33 (return)
[Royal journey.]

34 (return)
[Turning a boat on its side for repairs.]

35 (return)
[Scabbed.]

36 (return)
[Empty.]

37 (return)
[Face-modeling (Sampson). "There's a plain statement of your practises."]

38 (return)
[Blue like those of a woman with child.]

39 (return)
[Scurf.]

40 (return)

[Person of highest influence.]

41 (return)
[Hysteria.]

42 (return)
[This year.]

43 (return)
[Clearly.]

44 (return)
[Youngster.]

45 (return)
[A hall in the same palace.]

46 (return)
[Crossness.]

47 (return)
[Always.]

48 (return)
[The meaner servants.]

49 (return)
[At once.]

50 (return)
[Cast his horoscope.]

51 (return)
[The court of the same palace.]

52 (return)
[Making an astrological calculation.]

53 (return)
[Going to the root of the matter.]

54 (return)
[Write.]

55 (return)
[i.e., on his handkerchief.]

56 (return)

[Addressing the lantern.]

57 (return)
["The rest not considered."]

58 (return)
[A piece of news.]

59 (return)
[Cleverly contrived.]

60 (return)
[Rome. An apartment in the palace of the Cardinal.]

61 (return)
[Religious recluse.]

62 (return)
[Experienced.]

63 (return)
[Sick.]

64 (return)
[Medicinal.]

65 (return)
[Strong broth.]

66 (return)
[Another apartment in the same palace.]

67 (return)
[The mandrake was supposed to give forth shrieks when uprooted, which drove the hearer mad.]

68 (return)
[Unchaste.]

69 (return)
[Supposed to be a sign of folly.]

70 (return)
[Throw the hammer.]

71 (return)
[Boil to shreds. (Dyce.) Qq, TO BOIL.]

72 (return)
[Malfi. An apartment in the palace of the Duchess.]

73 (return)
[Wealth.]

74 (return)
[Lampoons.]

75 (return)
[Plowshares.]

76 (return)
[Spying.]

77 (return)
[Deceptions.]

78 (return)
[Soothing.]

79 (return)
[The bed-chamber of the Duchess in the same.]

80 (return)
[Qq. read SLIGHT.]

81 (return)
[Powder of orris-root.]

82 (return)
[Wheels of craft.]

83 (return)
[Certificate that the books were found correct.]

84 (return)
[The badge of a steward.]

85 (return)
[Spies.]

86 (return)
[Lot.]

87 (return)
[For Plutus.]

88 (return)
[Quick steps.]

89 (return)
[Miss.]

90 (return)
[Remains.]

91 (return)
[Profession.]

92 (return)
[An apartment in the Cardinal's palace at Rome.]

93 (return)
[A decorated horse-cloth, used only when the court is traveling.]

94 (return)
[The first quarto has in the margin: "The Author disclaims this Ditty to be his."]

95 (return)
[Near Loretto.]

96 (return)
[Small birds.]

97 (return)
[His vizard.]

98 (return)
[Malfi. An apartment in the palace of the Duchess.]

99 (return)
[Curtain.]

100 (return)

[The wife of Brutus, who died by swallowing fire.]

101 (return)
[By artificial means.]

102 (return)
[Profession.]

103 (return)
[Spying.]

104 (return)
[Another room in the lodging of the Duchess.]

105 (return)
[Band.]

106 (return)
[Bands.]

107 (return)
[Boil.]

108 (return)
[Punning on the two senses of "dye" and "corn."]

109 (return)
[From exporting his grain.]

110 (return)
[Optical glass.]

111 (return)
[The Geneva Bible.]

112 (return)
[Petticoat.]

113 (return)
[Coach.]

114 (return)
[A warm drink containing milk, wine, etc.]

115 (return)
[Receptacle.]

116 (return)
[A drug supposed to ooze from embalmed bodies.]

117 (return)
[Curdled.]

118 (return)
[Trial.]

119 (return)
[An exclamation of impatience.]

120 (return)
[Milan. A public place.]

121 (return)
[In escheat; here, in fee.]

122 (return)
[Disbeliever.]

123 (return)
[Fraught.]

124 (return)
[A gallery in the residence of the Cardinal and Ferdinand.]

125 (return)
[A dog which worries sheep.]

126 (return)
[A fabulous serpent that killed by its glance.]

127 (return)
[Cut a caper.]

128 (return)
[Broth.]

129 (return)
[Skeletons.]

130 (return)
[So Dyce. Qq. BROUGHT.]

131 (return)
[Perfumed sweetmeats for the breath.]

132 (return)
[Smoke.]

133 (return)
[A fortification.]

134 (return)
[Milan. An apartment in the residence of the Cardinal and Ferdinand.]

135 (return)
[Reality.]

136 (return)
[Mistake.]

137 (return)
[i.e., the dead body.]

138 (return)
[Another apartment in the same.

END OF PLAY

Transcriber's Note:

Comments on the preparation of this e-text:

All of the footnotes have been re-numbered, in the form [xxx].

A few punctuation marks have been added. These are always set off by angle brackets. Eg. [?]

The names of the characters have been spelled out in full. Eg. CARDINAL was CARD.

Leading blanks are reproduced from the printed text. Eg.:

FERDINAND. Sister, I have a suit to you.

DUCHESS. To me, sir?

 END OF THE PROJECT GUTENBERG EBOOK THE DUCHESS OF MALFI ***

Updated editions will replace the previous one—the old editions will be renamed.

Creating the works from print editions not protected by U.S. copyright law means that no one owns a United States copyright in these works, so the Foundation (and you!) can copy and distribute it in the United States without permission and without paying copyright royalties. Special rules, set forth in the General Terms of Use part of this license, apply to copying and distributing Project Gutenberg™ electronic works to protect the PROJECT GUTENBERG™ concept and trademark. Project Gutenberg is a registered trademark, and may not be used if you charge for an eBook, except by following the terms of the trademark license, including paying royalties for use of the Project Gutenberg trademark. If you do not charge anything for copies of this eBook, complying with the trademark license is very easy. You may use this eBook for nearly any purpose such as creation of derivative works, reports, performances and research. Project Gutenberg eBooks may be modified and printed and given away—you may do practically ANYTHING in the United States with eBooks not protected by U.S. copyright law. Redistribution is subject to the trademark license, especially commercial redistribution.

START: FULL LICENSE

THE FULL PROJECT GUTENBERG™ LICENSE

PLEASE READ THIS BEFORE YOU DISTRIBUTE OR USE THIS WORK

To protect the Project Gutenberg™ mission of promoting the free distribution of electronic works, by using or distributing this work (or any other work associated in any way with the phrase “Project Gutenberg”), you agree to comply with all the terms of the Full Project Gutenberg License available with this file or online at www.gutenberg.org/license.

Section 1. General Terms of Use and Redistributing Project Gutenberg electronic works

1.A. By reading or using any part of this Project Gutenberg electronic work, you indicate that you have read, understand, agree to and accept all the terms of this license and intellectual property (trademark/copyright) agreement. If you do not agree to abide by all the terms of this agreement, you must cease using and return or destroy all copies of Project Gutenberg electronic works in your possession. If you paid a fee for obtaining a copy of or access to a Project Gutenberg electronic work and you do not agree to be bound by the terms of this agreement, you may obtain a refund from the person or entity to whom you paid the fee as set forth in paragraph 1.E.8.

1.B. “Project Gutenberg” is a registered trademark. It may only be used on or associated in any way with an electronic work by people who agree to be bound by the terms of this agreement. There are a few things that you can do with most Project Gutenberg electronic works even without complying with the full terms of this agreement. See paragraph 1.C below. There are a lot of things you can do with Project Gutenberg electronic works if you follow the terms of this agreement and help preserve free future access to Project Gutenberg electronic works. See paragraph 1.E below.

1.C. The Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation (“the Foundation” or PGLAF), owns a compilation copyright in the collection of Project Gutenberg electronic works. Nearly all the individual works in the collection are in the public domain in the United States. If an individual work is unprotected by copyright law in the United States and you are located in the United States, we do not claim a right to prevent you from copying, distributing, performing, displaying or creating derivative works based on the work as long as all references to Project Gutenberg are removed. Of course, we hope that you will support the Project Gutenberg mission of promoting free access to electronic works by freely sharing Project Gutenberg works in compliance with the terms of this agreement for keeping the Project Gutenberg name associated with the work. You can easily comply with the terms of this agreement by keeping this work in the same format with its attached full Project Gutenberg License when you share it without charge with others.

1.D. The copyright laws of the place where you are located also govern what you can do with this work. Copyright laws in most countries are in a constant state of change. If you are outside the United States, check the laws of your country in addition to the terms of this agreement before downloading, copying, displaying, performing, distributing or creating derivative works based on this work or any other Project Gutenberg work. The Foundation makes no representations concerning the copyright status of any work in any country other than the United States.

1.E. Unless you have removed all references to Project Gutenberg:

1.E.1. The following sentence, with active links to, or other immediate access to, the full Project Gutenberg License must appear prominently whenever any copy of a Project Gutenberg work (any work on which the phrase “Project Gutenberg” appears, or with which the phrase “Project Gutenberg” is associated) is accessed, displayed, performed, viewed, copied or distributed:

> This eBook is for the use of anyone anywhere in the United States and most other parts of the world at no cost and with almost no restrictions whatsoever. You may copy it, give it away or re-use it under the terms of the Project Gutenberg™ License included with this eBook or online at www.gutenberg.org. If you are not located in the United States, you will have to check the laws of the country where you are located before using this eBook.

1.E.2. If an individual Project Gutenberg electronic work is derived from texts not protected by U.S. copyright law (does not contain a notice indicating that it is posted with permission of the copyright holder), the work can be copied and distributed to anyone in the United States without paying any fees or charges. If you are redistributing or providing access to a work with the phrase “Project Gutenberg” associated with or appearing on the work, you must comply either with the requirements of paragraphs 1.E.1 through 1.E.7 or obtain permission for the use of the work and the Project Gutenberg trademark as set forth in paragraphs 1.E.8 or 1.E.9.

1.E.3. If an individual Project Gutenberg electronic work is posted with the permission of the copyright holder, your use and distribution must comply with both paragraphs 1.E.1 through 1.E.7 and any additional terms imposed by the copyright holder. Additional terms will be linked to the Project Gutenberg License for all works posted with the permission of the copyright holder found at the beginning of this work.

1.E.4. Do not unlink or detach or remove the full Project Gutenberg License terms from this work, or any files containing a part of this work or any other work associated with Project Gutenberg.

1.E.5. Do not copy, display, perform, distribute or redistribute this electronic work, or any part of this electronic work, without prominently displaying the sentence set forth in paragraph 1.E.1 with active links or immediate access to the full terms of the Project Gutenberg License.

1.E.6. You may convert to and distribute this work in any binary, compressed, marked up, nonproprietary or proprietary form, including any word processing or hypertext form. However, if you provide access to or distribute copies of a Project Gutenberg work in a format other than “Plain Vanilla ASCII” or other format used in the official version posted on the official Project Gutenberg website (www.gutenberg.org), you must, at no additional cost, fee or expense to the user, provide a copy, a means of exporting a copy, or a means of obtaining a copy upon request, of the work in its original “Plain Vanilla ASCII” or other form. Any alternate format must include the full Project Gutenberg License as specified in paragraph 1.E.1.

1.E.7. Do not charge a fee for access to, viewing, displaying, performing, copying or distributing any Project Gutenberg works unless you comply with paragraph 1.E.8 or 1.E.9.

1.E.8. You may charge a reasonable fee for copies of or providing access to or distributing Project Gutenberg electronic works provided that:

• You pay a royalty fee of 20% of the gross profits you derive from the use of Project Gutenberg works calculated using the method

you already use to calculate your applicable taxes. The fee is owed to the owner of the Project Gutenberg trademark, but he has agreed to donate royalties under this paragraph to the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation. Royalty payments must be paid within 60 days following each date on which you prepare (or are legally required to prepare) your periodic tax returns. Royalty payments should be clearly marked as such and sent to the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation at the address specified in Section 4, “Information about donations to the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation.”

- You provide a full refund of any money paid by a user who notifies you in writing (or by e-mail) within 30 days of receipt that s/he does not agree to the terms of the full Project Gutenberg™ License. You must require such a user to return or destroy all copies of the works possessed in a physical medium and discontinue all use of and all access to other copies of Project Gutenberg™ works.

- You provide, in accordance with paragraph 1.F.3, a full refund of any money paid for a work or a replacement copy, if a defect in the electronic work is discovered and reported to you within 90 days of receipt of the work.

- You comply with all other terms of this agreement for free distribution of Project Gutenberg™ works.

1.E.9. If you wish to charge a fee or distribute a Project Gutenberg™ electronic work or group of works on different terms than are set forth in this agreement, you must obtain permission in writing from the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation, the manager of the Project Gutenberg™ trademark. Contact the Foundation as set forth in Section 3 below.

1.F.

1.F.1. Project Gutenberg volunteers and employees expend considerable effort to identify, do copyright research on, transcribe and proofread works not protected by U.S. copyright law in creating the Project Gutenberg™ collection. Despite these efforts, Project Gutenberg™ electronic works, and the medium on which they may be stored, may contain "Defects," such as, but not limited to, incomplete, inaccurate or corrupt data, transcription errors, a copyright or other intellectual property infringement, a defective or damaged disk or other medium, a computer virus, or computer codes that damage or cannot be read by your equipment.

1.F.2. LIMITED WARRANTY, DISCLAIMER OF DAMAGES - Except for the "Right of Replacement or Refund" described in paragraph 1.F.3, the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation, the owner of the Project Gutenberg™ trademark, and any other party distributing a Project Gutenberg™ electronic work under this agreement, disclaim all liability to you for damages, costs and expenses, including legal fees. YOU AGREE THAT YOU HAVE NO REMEDIES FOR NEGLIGENCE, STRICT LIABILITY, BREACH OF WARRANTY OR BREACH OF CONTRACT EXCEPT THOSE PROVIDED IN PARAGRAPH 1.F.3. YOU AGREE THAT THE FOUNDATION, THE TRADEMARK OWNER, AND ANY DISTRIBUTOR UNDER THIS AGREEMENT WILL NOT BE LIABLE TO YOU FOR ACTUAL, DIRECT, INDIRECT, CONSEQUENTIAL, PUNITIVE OR INCIDENTAL DAMAGES EVEN IF YOU GIVE NOTICE OF THE POSSIBILITY OF SUCH DAMAGE.

1.F.3. LIMITED RIGHT OF REPLACEMENT OR REFUND - If you discover a defect in this electronic work within 90 days of receiving it, you can receive a refund of the money (if any) you paid for it by sending a written explanation to the person you received the work from. If you received the work on a physical medium, you must return the medium with your written explanation. The person or entity that provided you with the defective work may elect to provide a replacement copy in lieu of a refund. If you received the work electronically, the person or entity providing it to you may choose to give you a second opportunity to receive the work electronically in lieu of a refund. If the second copy is also defective, you may demand a refund in writing without further opportunities to fix the problem.

1.F.4. Except for the limited right of replacement or refund set forth in paragraph 1.F.3, this work is provided to you ‘AS-IS’, WITH NO OTHER WARRANTIES OF ANY KIND, EXPRESS OR IMPLIED, INCLUDING BUT NOT LIMITED TO WARRANTIES OF MERCHANTABILITY OR FITNESS FOR ANY PURPOSE.

1.F.5. Some states do not allow disclaimers of certain implied warranties or the exclusion or limitation of certain types of damages. If any disclaimer or limitation set forth in this agreement violates the law of the state applicable to this agreement, the agreement shall be interpreted to make the maximum disclaimer or limitation permitted by the applicable state law. The invalidity or unenforceability of any provision of this agreement shall not void the remaining provisions.

1.F.6. INDEMNITY - You agree to indemnify and hold the Foundation, the trademark owner, any agent or employee of the Foundation, anyone providing copies of Project Gutenberg™ electronic works in accordance with this agreement, and any volunteers associated with the production, promotion and distribution of Project Gutenberg™ electronic works, harmless from all liability, costs and expenses, including legal fees, that arise directly or indirectly from any of the following which you do or cause to occur: (a) distribution of this or any Project Gutenberg work, (b) alteration, modification, or additions or deletions to any Project Gutenberg work, and (c) any Defect you cause.

Section 2. Information about the Mission of Project Gutenberg

Project Gutenberg is synonymous with the free distribution of electronic works in formats readable by the widest variety of computers including obsolete, old, middle-aged and new computers. It exists because of the efforts of hundreds of volunteers and donations from people in all walks of life.

Volunteers and financial support to provide volunteers with the assistance they need are critical to reaching Project Gutenberg's goals and ensuring that the Project Gutenberg collection will remain freely available for generations to come. In 2001, the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation was created to provide a secure and permanent future for Project Gutenberg and future generations. To learn more about the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation and how your efforts and donations can help, see Sections 3 and 4 and the Foundation information page at www.gutenberg.org.

Section 3. Information about the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation

The Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation is a non-profit 501(c)(3) educational corporation organized under the laws of the state of Mississippi and granted tax exempt status by the Internal Revenue Service. The Foundation's EIN or federal tax identification number is 64-6221541. Contributions to the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation are tax deductible to the full extent permitted by U.S. federal laws and your state's laws.

The Foundation's business office is located at 41 Watchung Plaza #516, Montclair NJ 07042, USA, +1 (862) 621-9288. Email contact links and up to date contact information can be found at the Foundation's website and official page at www.gutenberg.org/contact

Section 4. Information about Donations to the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation

Project Gutenberg™ depends upon and cannot survive without widespread public support and donations to carry out its mission of increasing the number of public domain and licensed works that can be freely distributed in machine-readable form accessible by the widest array of equipment including outdated equipment. Many small donations ($1 to $5,000) are particularly important to maintaining tax exempt status with the IRS.

The Foundation is committed to complying with the laws regulating charities and charitable donations in all 50 states of the United States. Compliance requirements are not uniform and it takes a considerable effort, much paperwork and many fees to meet and keep up with these requirements. We do not solicit donations in locations where we have not received written confirmation of compliance. To SEND DONATIONS or determine the status of compliance for any particular state visit www.gutenberg.org/donate.

While we cannot and do not solicit contributions from states where we have not met the solicitation requirements, we know of no prohibition against accepting unsolicited donations from donors in such states who approach us with offers to donate.

International donations are gratefully accepted, but we cannot make any statements concerning tax treatment of donations received from outside the United States. U.S. laws alone swamp our small staff.

Please check the Project Gutenberg web pages for current donation methods and addresses. Donations are accepted in a number of other ways including checks, online payments and credit card donations. To donate, please visit: www.gutenberg.org/donate.

Section 5. General Information About Project Gutenberg electronic works

Professor Michael S. Hart was the originator of the Project Gutenberg concept of a library of electronic works that could be freely shared with anyone. For forty years, he produced and distributed Project Gutenberg eBooks with only a loose network of volunteer support.

Project Gutenberg eBooks are often created from several printed editions, all of which are confirmed as not protected by copyright in the U.S. unless a copyright notice is included. Thus, we do not necessarily keep eBooks in compliance with any particular paper edition.

Most people start at our website which has the main PG search facility: www.gutenberg.org.

This website includes information about Project Gutenberg, including how to make donations to the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation, how to help produce our new eBooks, and how to subscribe to our email newsletter to hear about new eBooks.